FOX SAYS HOOVER TRIED TO PREVENT RECEIVERSHIP

Testifies Huston, G. O. P.
Head, Saw Wiggin for Him, but Banker Sent Word for President to 'Mind Own Business.'

PAID AT '81 PER CENT RATE' FOR ONE LOAN

Declares Financiers Discussed 'Capture' of His Holdings—Charges Conspiracy While He 'Peddled Wares' Seeking Help

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Testifying that the Hoover administration attempted to arrange a loan to prevent receivership of the vast movie holdings of William Fox, only to be rebuffed by Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the Chase National bank, was received today by the Banking Committee.

Fox also charged that $15,000,000 mysteriously disappeared from Treasury of Fox Theaters Corporation since he lost control of it.
He testified no effort had been made to account for the money.
"I know where it went," he said. "There has been a great effort to say where it went, $100 or 1400 honest people paid for $30 a share for the stock of the company."

Beating to Senate investigators a story of the collapse of his film of 1000 movie houses, Fox testified that Claudius Huston, then chairman of the Republican National Committee, went to Wiggin to try to get a loan, and was directed by the President to mind his business. Wiggin also was accused as saying he "resented Mr.
Hoover's interference in this matter."

Fox said he considered Huston as an agent of the President. He charged bankers conspired to get rid of his properties.
"Bear in mind," Fox told the committee, "these are 1928 ventures. They were not working under the regime that we are working under now. There was no New Deal then. The common people are not people then. The Chase bank had a huge capitalization and Huston felt himself powerful enough to say to the President: 'I resent his interference in this matter.'"

Opposed a Receivership.
Fox previously had told a long story about "peddling my movie rights in search of aid. Finally, said, Huston appeared and offered to help."

Asked him to return to Washington and report the situation," he said. "When he came back a few days later, I inquired whether he had done so and he said he had in a general way. He said he was going to see Albert Wiggin and adjust the trouble with him."

Fox told of the reply he said
Huston brought back from Wiggin.
Fox said the Hoover administration was against letting his companies go into receivership. "The thing the President wanted was a corporation with assets of $10,000,000," he added. "I considered Huston as the agent of the President to prevent this receivership."

Continuing the story of his loss of control of his vast movie properties, Fox said he had heard that Clarence Dillon and company had "discussed the capture of the Fox companies." Dillon and company, Read & Co., was controlled by the Chase National Bank.
Huston retired as chairman of the bank a few months ago.

Fox said he arranged to see Dillon while peddling his wares down the lower end of Broadway. "I was seeking financial aid to save my companies," he said.

Fox also told of asking for aid from Richard Hoyt, a partner of Clarence Dillon & Co., which had received an unsympathetic response. Fox said he told Hoyt:
"I would like to cut both of them out of my kidneys."

He quoted Hoyt as replying:
"I would like to cut both of them out of my kidneys." Fox said he was forced out of the Chase National bank by a conspiracy of bankers, including Halsey-Stuart & Co., John Otterson, an official of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., and others. Continuing

PLANS TO INCREASE FEDERAL DRY FORCE FOLLOWING REPEAL

Cummings Says It Will Protect States Having Prohibition Laws.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—A prohibition force larger than the present one will have to be maintained after repeal to protect dry states, Attorney-General Cummings has announced.

Under the second section of the repeal amendment, the Government is charged with the duty of protecting the dry states of which there will be 29 on the date of repeal.
The prohibition unit of the Department of Justice, now numbering 1200 employees, will face a great many difficulties, Cummings said.
One of the problems, he said, is determining what form of control will be organized, and how far the Treasury Department will function in prosecuting violators of revenue laws.

FLYER KILLED WHEN ARMY PLANES COLLIDE IN AIR

Cadet's Parachute Catches, He Is Dragged to Death; Other Aviator Leaps to Safety.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 24.—
Flying Cadet A. J. Evans, 22 years old, was killed and Flying Cadet Allen Perry, 25, escaped injury in a mid-air collision of their army planes four miles southeast of Somerset today. Perry landed safely with his parachute.

Evans, who seemed to have been injured in the crash, failed to jump until his plane was quite low, and then his parachute fouled on his ship, dragging him to death. Evans' parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. M.
Evans, Chicago. Perry's home is at Plantersville, Ala.

CORNELL FACULTY SPLIT OVER IDEAS OF PROF. WARREN

I. L. Reed, Also an Economist, Calls Colleague's Monetary Notions "Unsound."

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 24.—A professor of economics at Cornell University, where Dr. George Warren, President Roosevelt's economic adviser, is a faculty member, was on record today as opposed to the Warren doctrines which are behind the administration's present gold policy "Dollar."

An audience of several hundred students and faculty members gathered to hear Prof. Harold Lyle Reed attack the Warren monetary notions as unsound and to express fear that the present course of the administration will result in runaway inflation, such as Germany experienced.

Prof. Reed declared that the currency devaluation and general price level should be clearly defined immediately "in order that the theory may be a good basis for public action." He expressed doubt that the present movements of the gold price have any connection with the general price level.

Reed and Warren head separate departments at Cornell, where the latter is professor of agricultural economics in the College of Agriculture, and the former is head of the economics department of the Liberal Arts College.

The relationship between gold and prices, which is the basis of Dr. Warren's monetary theories, is causing daily verbal battles among the students and the faculty members. Dr. Livingston Farrand, the university's president, alone is remaining aloof from the controversy.

A paper prepared on the subject of "The Price of Gold," by Dr. A. Pearson, colleague of Prof. Warren, is considered to contain significant statements because the two are close collaborators on all public pronouncements, and are co-authors of the latest book to appear under Warren's name, "Prices."

The monograph points out that since 1931, Australia has maintained commodity prices at a comparatively high level by raising the price of gold, and that in the last 142 years the United States has been unable to maintain a fixed price for gold 20 per cent of the time. It indicates that if Dr. Warren has his way gold will always have an elastic standard hereafter. It concludes:

"Our monetary and business history previous to March indicates how unsuccessful an absolute adherence to the old type of gold standard based on an invariable price for gold has been. It is to be hoped that when the nation returns to the gold standard, some kind of machinery will be provided so that we can, when necessary, change the price of gold without having to undergo another such catastrophe."

By the Associated Press. McALESTER, Ok., Nov. 24.—Earl Quinn, former alcohol runner, was electrocuted in the State prison here today for the murder of Leslie and Zexia Griffith, school teacher sisters, nearly three years ago.

The confession was made late yesterday to Chief of Detectives Thomas J. Higgins of Kansas City, who accompanied by Detective J. Brennan, came to McAlester yesterday to interview Quinn.

71 ARE CONVICTED IN PHILADELPHIA 'PROTECTION' PLOT

State Senator John J. McClure Gets 18 Months and Is Fined $10,000 on Federal Liquor Charge.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—State Senator John J. McClure and 70 co-defendants were convicted today on a Federal charge of participating in the alleged Delaware County liquor "protection" organization.

All were charged with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

Among those convicted were Eugene F. White, chief clerk of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives; several Republican ward leaders in Chester; former constables and magistrates, and many alleged liquor law violators.

McClure was given a sentence for conspiracy of 18 months and a $10,000 fine.

White was sentenced for a year and a day and fined $2500.

Ten Get Suspended Sentences. The first 10 of the defendants to be sentenced received suspended sentences of 18 months each.

O. N. Smith, chief of Delaware County detectives, was fined $500 and placed on three years' probation in addition to getting a suspended sentence.

John F. Bauer, private secretary to McClure, was sentenced to 15 months in jail and a fine of $5000.

Harley L. Clarke, a former president of Fox Film Corporation, testified that Fox could have financed his companies without losing control.

The "proof is that, in less than two weeks, when I had a chance, I succeeded in raising $100,000," Clarke said. "It simply goes to show that any conspiracy complex or hallucinations that Mr. Fox may have had are not in accord with the facts."

Pecora replied that the fact Clarke was able to raise the money when Fox had failed might be proof of the conspiracy charge as well as proof against it.

When testimony was opened this morning Senator Couzens (Rep.), Michigan, called for evidence that the bankers "charged off loans against your (Fox) balances before the loans were due."

Couzens said that was a "most unusual practice," and should be proved if possible. Fox agreed to try to furnish the data and Pecora, committee counsel, suggested the committee's subpoena power could be used to aid him.

At the outset Fox listed a dozen banks in which he said his companies had loans and deposits—the Chase National, Public National, Chelsea Springs, Harriman National, Bank of U. S., Bankers Trust Co., Corn Exchange, Federal Trust Co., Trust of New Jersey, National City, Chemical National and Manufacturers Trust Co.

Fox's letter to Banks. Fox submitted a letter he said he wrote to the banks asking for leniency on the loans.

Couzens remarked it showed the loans to Fox were demand loans and that therefore they were not being called ahead of maturity.

"Some were due and some were not," Fox replied. "The Chase Bank note was past due."

"So charging it off against your balance was legitimate," Couzens said. "This does not agree with your testimony yesterday."

SEEKS ANNULMENT

Mrs. Ethel Johnston Hassett.

By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer. MRS. ETHEL JOHNSTON HASSETT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Federal Judge John M. Woolsey today ruled that the old Roman maxim, "caveat emptor," which, translated, means, "Let the buyer beware," must be supplanted by a new maxim, "caveat venditor"—"Let the seller beware."

The ruling was contained in a 47-page opinion in which he upheld the indictment of five defendants charged with fraudulent use of the money in connection with the sale of stock of the Manhattan Electrical Supply Co.

Judge Woolsey said it appeared to him "that where two or more persons engaged in a so-called pool operation on a stock exchange in respect to a stock, it is only by scrupulously maintained honesty of dealing that they may escape condemnation as a fraudulent conspiracy."

The slightest step over the line of absolute fair dealing," the opinion said, "takes them into the zone of condemnation by the courts and the doctrine applicable to each member of the pool is the new maxim venditor."

The Judge made it plain that he based his opinion on the allegations contained in the indictment and in the recent argument before him and in filed papers, and that he did not in any sense pass on the guilt or innocence of the accused.

Of the defendants against whom the indictment stands, Richard H. Brown was president of Manhattan Electrical Supply at a salary of $100,000; Charles H. McCarthy was said by Assistant U. S. Atorneys to have been the "pool operator" in the stock; Charles Peatree to have been the Reading (Pa.) manager of the brokerage concern; Norman B. Ross to have been employed by Assistant U. S. Atorneys, and Charles Worum, a customer's man for the brokerage concern in its New York office.

Assistant United States Attorney Jacob J. Rosenthal said there were 200,000 shares of Manhattan Electrical Supply Co. stock outstanding at a market value of $55.50 a share when they dropped in a day in 1930 to $25 a share, a loss in value of $6,000,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Art connoisseurs from New York's metropolitan area came out only fairly well yesterday afternoon at the eleventh annual Founders' exhibition at the Grand Central Art Galleries, which opened at 10 o'clock.

The names of 36 lay members of the galleries were selected one by one at random to determine what choice each would have from paintings and pieces of sculpture contributed by artist members. The last seven drawn were those of residents of this city or its vicinity.

The first name selected was that of Mrs. Wooster Lambert of St. Louis and New York and she was permitted to choose any one work of art on exhibition. She picked "The Rest," a painting by Jerome Myers, which showed a group of children, evidently at the end of a hard afternoon of play, lingering in a birch wood.

The exhibition drawing has been held annually since the days when John Singer Sargent, the first artist member of the galleries, contributed. He gave a $10,000 to the galleries each year, for the privilege of taking a chance, although previously the price of entering the contest has been $600. Half the proceeds go to the upkeep of the galleries and the remainder to needy artists.

Tammany Has $110,000 Deficit. NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The New York American says it has learned that Tammany Hall, following the defeat of Mayor John P. O'Brien, is faced with a $110,000 deficit.

The voting trust compelled him, Fox added, to put up money he had borrowed on his life insurance. The amount amounted to $6,000,000.

Will Hays then came around and offered to help, Fox said. Hays told him he had a friend who wanted to buy the voting stock in Fox Film and Fox Theaters.

"I told him I had valued the stock at $100,000,000 before my financial troubles, but that now I would take one-third of that, or $33,000,000," Fox said.

Then Hays disclosed he was representing Harley Clarke, the witness added.

COURT UPHOLDS IDEA OF 'SELLER BEWARE'

New York Federal Judge Sustains Indictments Against Stock Pool Operators.

The slightest step over the line of absolute fair dealing," the opinion said, "takes them into the zone of condemnation by the courts and the doctrine applicable to each member of the pool is the new maxim venditor."

The Judge made it plain that he based his opinion on the allegations contained in the indictment and in the recent argument before him and in filed papers, and that he did not in any sense pass on the guilt or innocence of the accused.

Of the defendants against whom the indictment stands, Richard H. Brown was president of Manhattan Electrical Supply at a salary of $100,000; Charles H. McCarthy was said by Assistant U. S. Atorneys to have been the "pool operator" in the stock; Charles Peatree to have been the Reading (Pa.) manager of the brokerage concern; Norman B. Ross to have been employed by Assistant U. S. Atorneys, and Charles Worum, a customer's man for the brokerage concern in its New York office.

Assistant United States Attorney Jacob J. Rosenthal said there were 200,000 shares of Manhattan Electrical Supply Co. stock outstanding at a market value of $55.50 a share when they dropped in a day in 1930 to $25 a share, a loss in value of $6,000,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Art connoisseurs from New York's metropolitan area came out only fairly well yesterday afternoon at the eleventh annual Founders' exhibition at the Grand Central Art Galleries, which opened at 10 o'clock.

The names of 36 lay members of the galleries were selected one by one at random to determine what choice each would have from paintings and pieces of sculpture contributed by artist members. The last seven drawn were those of residents of this city or its vicinity.

The first name selected was that of Mrs. Wooster Lambert of St. Louis and New York and she was permitted to choose any one work of art on exhibition. She picked "The Rest," a painting by Jerome Myers, which showed a group of children, evidently at the end of a hard afternoon of play, lingering in a birch wood.

The exhibition drawing has been held annually since the days when John Singer Sargent, the first artist member of the galleries, contributed. He gave a $10,000 to the galleries each year, for the privilege of taking a chance, although previously the price of entering the contest has been $600. Half the proceeds go to the upkeep of the galleries and the remainder to needy artists.

Tammany Has $110,000 Deficit. NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The New York American says it has learned that Tammany Hall, following the defeat of Mayor John P. O'Brien, is faced with a $110,000 deficit.

The voting trust compelled him, Fox added, to put up money he had borrowed on his life insurance. The amount amounted to $6,000,000.

Will Hays then came around and offered to help, Fox said. Hays told him he had a friend who wanted to buy the voting stock in Fox Film and Fox Theaters.

"I told him I had valued the stock at $100,000,000 before my financial troubles, but that now I would take one-third of that, or $33,000,000," Fox said.

Then Hays disclosed he was representing Harley Clarke, the witness added.

ALDERMEN PASS BILL ASSAILED AS ILLEGAL

It Is Designed to Terminate Contracts of Several of City's Consulting Experts.

An ordinance prohibiting the city from employing consulting engineers and architects "except as authorized by the charter" was passed today by the Board of Aldermen by a vote of 22 to 6.

Opponents of the measure charged that it was playing into the hands of public utilities, against which the city has rate cases pending, and that it was illegal because of a charter provision giving the Board of Public Service and Board of Estimate authority to employ consulting experts.

Backers of the measure apparently had not known of that provision in the charter. It was sponsored by Alderman Lietchen (Dem.), Third Ward, who offered it as an economy measure. Those voting against it were Vice-President Golden, Aldermen Hofflinger and Terry, Democrats, and Aldermen Eilers, Neumann and Waldman, Republicans.

The ordinance should be signed by the Mayor and should be held not to conflict with the charter, the employment of C. E. Smith & Co., engineers who have advised the city in utility rate matters would be terminated. Because that firm is now adding the city in pending cases, the effective date of the ordinance was made Feb. 20, 1934.

The employment of W. W. Horner as consulting engineer in the Department of Streets and Sewers would be terminated, and contracts such as the city has with the Plaza Commission, which designed Memorial Plaza, would be outlawed.

Alderman Eilers, who called the attention of the board to the charter provision for employment of consulting experts, declared the ordinance was illegal and that the Mayor undoubtedly would refuse to sign it.

Golden appointed a committee to investigate the possibilities of obtaining natural gas for the city. He named Aldermen Lietchen, Slay, Hasty, Scott, Gentlemen, Lange and Wadell. The last two are Republicans.

The board adjourned for two weeks. No session will be held next Friday because it is the day after Thanksgiving day.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Federal Judge John M. Woolsey today ruled that the old Roman maxim, "caveat emptor," which, translated, means, "Let the buyer beware," must be supplanted by a new maxim, "caveat venditor"—"Let the seller beware."

The ruling was contained in a 47-page opinion in which he upheld the indictment of five defendants charged with fraudulent use of the money in connection with the sale of stock of the Manhattan Electrical Supply Co.

Judge Woolsey said it appeared to him "that where two or more persons engaged in a so-called pool operation on a stock exchange in respect to a stock, it is only by scrupulously maintained honesty of dealing that they may escape condemnation as a fraudulent conspiracy."

The slightest step over the line of absolute fair dealing," the opinion said, "takes them into the zone of condemnation by the courts and the doctrine applicable to each member of the pool is the new maxim venditor."

The Judge made it plain that he based his opinion on the allegations contained in the indictment and in the recent argument before him and in filed papers, and that he did not in any sense pass on the guilt or innocence of the accused.

MERGER OF FRISCO WITH KATY SUGGESTED

RFC Examiner Also Advises
Creditors to Consider Rock Island Consolidation.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Mergers of the Frisco and Katy railroads, which have their general offices in St. Louis, was considered today at a meeting of creditors of the Frisco Railroad as bearing the greatest possibility of savings. R. F. C. experts are looking over the suggestion.

A study by Hilton M. Moore, an examiner in the railroad division of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, discussed the possibilities of consolidating the Frisco with the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific and with the M-K-T.

His report showed possible savings of $3,161,000 in operating expenses through consolidation with the Rock Island and added that this might be increased through a more detailed study on the ground.

"Even so," said Moore, in discussing consolidation, "it is felt that the potential savings are small in comparison with the size of the two properties and that the real field for development of consolidation economies in the case of the Frisco lies in a merger with the Katy."

"These two properties now operate parallel and almost duplicate passenger and freight services between Fort Worth, Dallas and Kansas City; Fort Worth, Dallas and St. Louis; Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Kansas City; Oklahoma City, Tulsa and St. Louis."

"A single operation could effect train-mile savings of almost 50 per cent on the services over these competitive routes and this in turn would permit the relegation of long sections of both properties between Fort Smith and Kansas City and between Parsons and Oklahoma City to secondary standards."

"The Katy would lend fine strength at the Frisco's weakest point—Texas—and the Frisco in turn would strengthen the Katy in Missouri."

"There are, of course, similar opportunities for reciprocal feeding in a Rock Island-Frisco merger, and the savings above estimated do not allow for the increased earnings possible through holding tonnage to the united property for longer hauls. However, those two properties do not supplement each other to the same extent as the Katy and Frisco and they would not form nearly as well integrated a whole."

Court Allows Bondholders to Intervene in Litigation
Federal Judge Faria today granted permission to three groups of Frisco Railroad bondholders, organized as committees, to intervene in the Frisco bankruptcy litigation. They sought this privilege now for the purpose of participating in hearings, being held by the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington, on the Frisco reorganization plan.

DENIAL RESERVE BANK IS FIGHTING TREASURY

Decline in Government Bond Holdings Laid to Repurchase Agreement.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Authoritative sources close to the New York Federal Reserve Bank expressed indignation today at suggestions in Washington that the Reserve System had been opposing the Treasury in its support of the market for U. S. Government bonds.

While the weekly statement of the Reserve System showed its holdings of U. S. Government bonds had declined $508,000, it was learned in a reliable quarter that this was due entirely to a repurchase agreement with one of the Government-sponsored farm credit organizations in one of the Middle Western Reserve districts.

It was emphatically stated that the Reserve banks had not sold any U. S. Government securities in the open market for many weeks. It was explained that through repurchase agreements, the Reserve System's portfolio almost always fluctuates a little from week to week. The Reserve banks, for instance make a practice of extending credit to meet temporary requirements to Federal Land banks by purchasing U. S. Government securities from them, with an agreement that the Land Bank will buy them back at a certain time.

IMPEACHMENT OF BOYNTON IS VOTED IN KANSAS

State House, on 5 to 1 Rollcall, to File Charges Against Attorney-General in Bond Forgeries.

By the Associated Press.
TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 24.—Impeachment of Roland Boynton, State Attorney-General, was voted by the House of Representatives last night as an outgrowth of the million-dollar forged bond scandal. The vote, by voice, was about five to one.

Speaker W. H. Vernon appointed a committee to draft formal articles to be presented to the Senate. Resolutions urging the impeachment of Boynton and Will J. French, State Auditor, on misdemeanor charges were introduced by a special committee which investigated the bond scandal. There was no charge, however, that Boynton had any connection with the forgeries, for which Ronald Finney, broker, and Tom Boyd, former State Treasurer, face State and Federal charges. French's case will come up later.

Warren W. Finney, banker and father of the broker, was convicted by an Emporia jury recently on charges of embezzlement. The Finney bank was one of three closed after the forgeries were disclosed.

As outlined by Representative Guilfoyle of Dickinson the articles of impeachment will fall into three general classes as follows:

Inefficiency and unfaithfulness of Boynton to his trust as a member of the School Fund Commission. Failure to perform his duty by instituting proper civil and criminal proceedings when certain alleged irregularities in connection with bond transactions of Ronald Finney were called to his attention. That by reason of his personal and business relations with Finney, Boynton would be unable properly to represent the State in criminal and civil matters arising out of the case.

WON'T PAY $15,000 REWARD FOR CAPTURE OF THE KELLYS

Committee Finds That Department of Justice Men Were Responsible for Arrests.

By the Associated Press.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Nov. 24.—The $15,000 reward raised by a group of citizens for the capture of George (Machine Gun) Kelly and his wife, convicted U.S. kidnapers, will not be paid, Charles F. Colcord, chairman of the Reward Committee, announced yesterday.

"After careful investigation I have found that Department of Justice officials are responsible for the capture of George and Kathryn Kelly and they acted upon information which they had prior to the date the reward was offered," Colcord said.

"The committee of citizens selected to advise in this matter has unanimously approved this finding."

Colcord added the committee rejected a suggestion that the money be paid into a trust fund for 12-year-old Geraldine Arnold, who gave Federal agents information that led to capture of the Kellys at Memphis, Tenn.

The prisoner was taken to Chicago for a hearing before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. Virruso said he had once been tried for murder and acquitted.

Detroit Man and Milford (Ill.) Woman Refuse to Discuss Delay.

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Nov. 24.—Thirteen years after they obtained a license to wed, Walter H. Meyer, 43 years old, Detroit, and Miss Vesta L. Jones, 56, of Milford, Ill., were married here yesterday. The ceremony was performed by Judge Joseph Sanders after Meyer and Miss Jones had appeared at the Marriage License Bureau to inquire whether their license was "still good." It was. They would not discuss their reasons for the long delay.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

TIPTON SILENT ON DANIELS' VERSION OF NEU MURDER

At Leavenworth Prison, He Declines to Comment on "Dizzy" Story of Gravois Road Killing.

DANIELS SAID RENARD KILLED CONSTABLE

The Three St. Louis Gangsters Were Involved in the Crime by Renard's Testimony Against His Pals in Mail Robbery Trial.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Nov. 24.—Roy Tipton, Federal convict, refused yesterday to be interviewed about the statement of his former pal, "Dizzy" Daniels of the Egan gang, a life-term convict at Jefferson City, that Ray Renard, another Eganite, was the man who shot and killed Deputy Constable Edward P. Neu the night of April 3, 1923, in front of 8240 Gravois road.

The three men—Daniels, Tipton and Renard—have been associated in the reports of the murder of the constable, as yet unpublished, in this way:

Renard, who turned on his gang associates and testified against them at their trial for the robbery of a mail truck, which took place the day before the murder, testified that Tipton and Daniels were with him on the Gravois road the night of the murder. He said they were there in the course of disposing of a stolen Cadillac automobile used in the robbery the day before.

Where Renard's Story Stopped. Renard's story stopped short of the murder, however, since the purpose of his testimony was to connect Tipton and Daniels with the robbery car, and to complete that phase of the Government's case. Renard's testimony as to himself was to the effect that he was not with the others when the killing occurred. He said he was at the city limits at the time in his own car waiting for them to join him and complete the work of "ditching" the Cadillac, which they were driving.

Daniels' statement, published in the Post-Dispatch Tuesday, was that Renard himself shot down the deputy, after Neu had stopped the two cars for speeding. At the time, he said, Renard was driving his own car and was towing the Cadillac, which had become disabled on the run into the city from Fenton, where the three had taken it from a hideaway.

He asserted that when the officer stopped the two cars, Renard pulled ahead so violently that he broke the towrope, then stopped, got out and shot the deputy as he was placing his motorcycle on the stand. Daniels said that he himself was riding at the time in the Cadillac, but refused to name his companion, who was driving.

Daniels Denied Firing. Daniels declared no shots were fired either by him or his companion, although witnesses to the murder testified Neu was felled by shots from the Cadillac, and that after he was down the driver of the first car shot him in the face. Only the wound in the face, a physician testified at the inquest, was necessarily fatal, although Neu had also been shot twice in the shoulder.

Summoned yesterday to the office of Warden Zerbst to discuss the statement of Daniels with the correspondent, Tipton announced, before he sat down, that he would not make any statement on any subject. He was told that "the projected subject of the interview was the statement made by Daniels, but would not admit that he was familiar with it, nor would he be informed of it, except if he were compelled to listen, which he was not."

"I would like to be excused from making a statement about anything," he said. "I am not willing to discuss any matter, with any newspaper man."

Renard, who now lives in Willowbrook, Cal., also refused, in a long distance telephone conversation Tuesday, to discuss the statement made by Daniels.

Renard is a free man. Although there is a conviction of carrying concealed weapons against him in Missouri, California refused to honor an extradition request for him about a year ago. Tipton will be eligible to release in about 15 months. Daniels has a life term to serve unless he can make parole. He is eligible for consideration in this connection at any time.

Four Egan Gangsters' Application for Parole Rejected.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Parole applications made by four members of the old Egan gang recently were rejected by the Federal Board of Paroles.

As told Wednesday in the Post-Dispatch, William P. (Dinty) Colbeck, erstwhile leader of the gang, was denied a parole in August. It was learned today that paroles also were denied Charles P. (Red) Lanham, former business agent for Teamsters' Union, Local No. 6, in St. Louis; Frank Hack-that, who operated a roadhouse near Mitchell, Ill., and Gus Dismeyer, gunman.

Fred (Cotton) Eppelsheimer also made application for parole and it is still under consideration. All the men are serving sentences of 25 years for the $54,000 Staunton (Ill.) mail truck robbery.

Oliver Dougherty, Charles Smith, Roy Tipton, Colbeck, David (Chippy) Robinson, Stephen Ryan and Rudolph Schmidt are serving 15-year concurrent sentences for the St. Louis $260,000 downtown mail robbery. Schmidt is confined in the department for the insane. Leo Cronin, one of the downtown mail robbers, was paroled in 1930 and lives in New York.

A native of Ireland, Mr. Leahy had practiced law there after his graduation from Trinity College, Dublin, before he came to St. Louis in 1891. Active in Democratic politics, he was Democratic candidate for Circuit Judge in the primary election last year. He was about 86 years old.

BURNED TO DEATH

Mrs. Cicero A. McCormick, 27 years old, was burned fatally yesterday afternoon when her clothing was ignited by flames from naphtha-soaked papers, which she lighted in an ashtray back of her home, 4045 McPherson avenue.

She had used naphtha to clean garments and, when she finished, gathered up papers which had become saturated with the fluid. She threw the papers into the ashtray and struck a match to them. Flames shot up and set fire to her dress.

James Ward, a neighbor, heard Mrs. McCormick scream and ran to her assistance, extinguishing the flames with a blanket. She was taken to City Hospital, where she died at 7:30 o'clock last night.

Her husband, who is a painter, and four children survive.

Nine newspaper carriers each Christmas day will receive suits of clothes under the will. Wallenburst left certain jewelry to the business managers of three Baltimore newspapers to be sold or raffled and the proceeds to be used to buy the suits every Christmas until the fund should be exhausted.

4 INDIANS SHOT DEAD IN CHECKER GAME FIGHT

Row Develops as Group Starts Drinking—One of the Victims a Woman.

By the Associated Press.

GLOBE, Ariz., Nov. 24.—Three Indian men, two of them brothers, and a woman, the wife of one of them, were killed last night when a fight developed from a drinking party which started out as a peaceful checker game. The shooting occurred at Gisela, an isolated Tonopah Apache outpost under the Mogollon rim.

The dead: Lewis Johnson, who started the shooting and was killed by a shot fired either by one of his dying victims or by a fifth person. J. K. Martin and Walter Martin, brothers, shot by Johnson. Susie Martin, wife of one of the brothers, shot by Johnson. The four were playing checkers in a store, and home-made liquor was being imbibed. Sheriff Charles R. Byrne reported. Suddenly Johnson leaped to his feet and seized a rifle.

"I'm going to kill everybody here," he shouted.

Johnson shot four times. His three checker companions fell. Two stories of what then occurred were told by other Indians in the vicinity. One was that one of the Martin brothers, dying, wrenched the rifle from Johnson's hands and killed him. The other was that an Indian youth rushed into the room and killed Johnson.

STATE CONCLUDES HEARING OF CASE AGAINST BROKERS

Attorney Testifies About Stock of One Company That Sold for Penny a Share.

Decision on whether to revoke the license of H. J. Kattelman & Co., installment plan brokerage house with offices in the Central National Bank Building, will be made tomorrow by Securities Commissioner Ross, who conducted a two-day hearing of complaints against the firm which ended yesterday at Hotel Lenoir.

Kattelman & Co. has been under suspension for a month as a result of complaints presented to Ross by the St. Louis Better Business Bureau. The firm is charged with employing unlicensed salesmen, selling unregistered stocks, and unduly delaying delivery of securities to its customers.

One of the unregistered stocks in which the company dealt was General Railway Coupler Corporation, now in receivership. Blodgett Priest, former counsel for the company, was put on the stand to testify concerning its value. He said the stock was worthless.

Challenging the ability of Priest to appraise the company's assets, Patrick H. Cullen, attorney for Kattelman, demanded to know if the witness had ever visited the company's plant.

"They had no plant," was the answer. "Well," Cullen persisted, "did you ever visit their headquarters?" "They had no headquarters," repeated the witness.

"Were you ever in their home office?" Cullen inquired. "There was no home office," Priest answered.

Sold Shares for Penny Each. Priest explained that a trust company in Delaware, where the firm was incorporated, served as its legal home office. Headquarters of the coupler company, he said, were "wherever they hung their hats."

The company held patents to an automatic coupling device never produced commercially and never adopted by railroads. Priest said he had acquired 100,000 shares of its stock about three years ago in part payment of a fee and had sold the shares to a broker for a penny each.

The stock had been sold by several brokers, Priest testified, at prices ranging from one to 20 cents a share "or as much more than that as the broker could get."

One witness had testified she bought 10,000 shares from Kattelman in August, 1932, for a penny a share, and 7500 shares the following November for a cent and a half a share.

Testily Cullen interrupted the witness with the comment that his remarks "seem to be offered for the benefit of the public as they have no bearing on the issues here."

"I hope they will be of some benefit to the public," Priest answered. "I should hate to see anybody involved in the stock."

"I am glad to see," Cullen interposed, "that you have set yourself up as the guardian of the public welfare."

"It is about time somebody was doing that," Priest replied.

David Baron, attorney for a witness who had appeared earlier, testified he had drafted for his client what is known in the parlance of the trade as a "bucket shop letter," demanding that Kattelman & Co. set out in detail the names and addresses of persons from whom he had bought stock for the account of Baron's client, the serial numbers of the certificates, and other information. A month had passed, he said, and he had not obtained the information.

The statutes provide that customers of brokerage houses may demand such information, and that failure to supply it promptly shall be considered prima facie evidence that the broker is operating a bucket shop.

State Ends Case. That ended the State's case. Cullen had intended not to offer evidence and his client did not attend the hearing, but when Cullen wished to continue cross examination of a State's witness he was required, technically, to make him a witness for Kattelman.

through an exchange between New York brokers representing the two St. Louis brokerage houses.

"Now, isn't it a fact," Cullen asked, "that the whole purpose of this deal was an effort by your company to show that Kattelman & Co. was operating a bucket shop?"

Fabel said he knew nothing about that. He was asked if he knew what a bucket shop was, and defined it, improperly, as a place where securities are sold at a price higher than the market quotation. Missouri statutes, which make operation of bucket shops a felony, define them as places where pretended sales and purchases of securities are made but where no securities actually are bought and sold.

"But you do know," Cullen asked, "that about that time arrangements were made to get Mr. Gardner (Russell Gardner, of Reinholdt & Gardner) on the grand jury, don't you?"

Objection was raised to the question and it was not answered.

Gardner had not been a member of any recent grand jury, State or Federal.

Cullen had brought out previously that Louis J. Nicolaus, of Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., is a member of the present State grand jury. Assistant Circuit Attorney Ferris was present during the hearing, but took no part in it and would make no statement of what his interest was.

NURSE ACQUITTED OF KILLING MAN; TOLD OF ATTACK

Woman Foreman of Jury Embraces Freida W. Weltz After Santa Cruz, Cal., Verdict.

By the Associated Press. SANTA CRUZ, Cal., Nov. 24.—Freida Wilhelmina Weltz was acquitted here last night of the murder of Francis J. M. Grace, retired capitalist.

The 43-year-old nurse, a veteran of the World War, was acquitted by a jury, whose foreman and only woman member, Mrs. Ruby Ene-mark, embraced her after the verdict was read.

"I never had any doubt as to what our verdict would be," Mrs. Ene-mark said, "but I was surprised it took so long."

The jury was out more than 10 hours and had been ordered to bed for the night when agreement on a verdict was announced.

Miss Weltz was so overcome with emotion she was unable to issue a statement but her attorney, John Dugan of Pittsburgh, Pa., said she will go to Connelleville, Pa., to be with relatives.

Grace, 58, and a nephew of the late W. R. Grace, founder of the shipping and commission concern, was fatally shot in the garden of his Santa Cruz summer home Sept. 3.

Miss Weltz, apparently in a daze, was taken into custody a few minutes later and charged with killing the man she had formerly nursed.

Police quoted her as saying only that she had a "good and sufficient reason" to shoot Grace and not until she took the witness stand at her trial did she amplify the statement.

She asserted that Grace, while she was his employer, criminally attacked her and induced her to take measures to avoid motherhood.

Miss Weltz told the jury that as a result her health was wrecked and that she had gone to Grace seeking aid; determined to shoot herself and "fall dead at his feet" if he refused. She declared the pistol accidentally went off as she drew it from her purse.

OAKLAND, CAL., CITY MANAGER IS REMOVED BY COUNCIL

Ocean E. Carr Says Political Patronage Row Caused Opposition to Him.

By the Associated Press. OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 24.—Ocean E. Carr, president of the International City Managers' Association, was removed as city manager of Oakland last night by a 5-to-4 vote of the City Council.

John F. Hessler, California State Boxing Commissioner and former banker, was named to succeed Carr. Removal of Carr ended a campaign started prior to election of several new council members several months ago.

His opponents repeatedly asserted they did not question Carr's ability or conduct of the office and that the only issue was "Oakland jobs for Oakland men."

Carr, addressing the council, declared the issue was "good government against bad government," and charged political patronage was the only reason for the campaign against him.

SQUIBB'S COD-LIVER OIL Vitamin tested and vitamin protected

Help your baby build them with Bottled Sunshine

Every mother is anxious for her baby to have a beautifully developed framework. Every mother wants her baby to build sound, well-spaced teeth. Now authorities say that with plenty of one factor—Vitamin D—these features will be developed. Babies get some Vitamin D outdoors from the sun. But bad weather, clouds, smoke, fog, prevent them from receiving enough from sunshine alone. Mothers can supply the additional amount they need—with Bottled Sunshine—good cod-liver oil. See that your baby gets it regularly every day. Good cod-liver oil also provides another important factor babies need to grow and to establish good general resistance—Vitamin A! Not all cod-liver oils, however, supply an abundance of both vitamins. Many physicians recommend Squibb's. They know this superior oil is less expensive to use because it supplies more vitamins. Get it for your baby! At any reliable drug store.

into a literary tea yesterday, with a message of patience.
The wide-smiling Kansas housewife, recently turned authoress, flew here from her Washington, D.
C. home, to be feted by her publishers for her intimate revelations of Washington society.
She had this to say of a Washington dominated by Democrats, a Washington unstirred by Gann-Longworth controversies:
"It will pass, just as everything else has."
Brother Charlie's official hostess of Hoover administration days "can hardly wait for the 1936 campaign to begin," she confided. Of course the Republicans are going to be reinstated then. All life now is just a patient waiting until the day of reinstatement, the day of re-entrance of Dolly Gann, perhaps, into the inner circles.

"I've been through a lot, you know, since Grover Cleveland's day, so nothing surprises me very much," she said, deprecating the state of affairs with a little smile that meant: "You and I understand that, certainly."
"Washington isn't what it used to be. But I have one good word for the Roosevelt administration, and that's the abolition of child labor."
"Why am I a Republican? Why,
I just can't help being. I always have been. Besides, it stands for everything worth living for."

She pointed out solemnly that "Billy" Gann, her lawyer-husband, is and always has been a Kentucky Democrat.
She was petrified at the prospect of flying to New York, but she thought of Eleanor Roosevelt's frequent trips by air, and wouldn't say die.
"If Eleanor Roosevelt could do it,
I could," she vowed.
"I'm going to see 'As Thousands Cheer' while I'm here," she said.
In this political satire, it was explained, the authors portray the former president and Mrs. Hoover leaving the White House, with the first lady declaring the first thing she intends to do is call up a lot of people and tell them what she thinks of them.
"Get me Dolly Gann," the stage
Mrs. Hoover says.
"Oh, I think that's cute," said
Mrs. Gann.

'NEWSPAPER MUSEUM' WILL OPEN TOMORROW

Editorial and Mechanical Evolution of Daily Shown in Department Store Exhibit.

A "newspaper museum," designed to show the editorial and mechanical evolution of a daily newspaper and including reproductions of front pages of newspapers recording historical events, will be opened for two weeks, beginning at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, in the assembly hall on the ninth floor at Stix, Baer & Fuller.

An automatic telegraphic printer which types news dispatches, eliminating dots and dashes and an operator, will be on display, in operation. A form will show how a page is made up from lines of type.

One exhibit shows the steps in production of a front page of the Post-Dispatch Sunday magazine section from the original artist's drawing through the various color processes. Original sketches of the Bungles, Popeye, Skippy and other Post-Dispatch comic strips form another display.

Original Fitzpatrick Cartoons.
Mounted on one board are 15 original black crayon sketches by D. R. Fitzpatrick which readers have seen as cartoons on the Post-Dispatch editorial page. "Believe it or Not" original Ripley drawings also are shown. The Post-Dispatch Weatherbird, himself, not a printed reproduction, also is nested in this section.

of history-making events recorded by their cameras.

A London Times of June 22, 1815, carries the report by the Duke of Wellington of his victory over Napoleon at Waterloo, four days before, but it is relegated to the inside portion of the four-page paper, want-ad covering almost all of page one.

St. Louis' First Newspaper.
Even older is a printed reproduction of the Missouri Gazette of July 26, 1808, St. Louis' first newspaper.
Thirteen years before Missouri came into existence, it states the place of publication as "St. Louis, Louisiana," and names the publisher as "Joseph Charles, printer to the Territory."

Photostatic reproductions of St.
Louis newspapers, taken from the files at the Public Library, include stories of the opening of Eads Bridge, July 4, 1874, hailing it as "the greatest work of the age." The first recorded parade of the Velled Prophets (the plural is used) was Oct. 9, 1878.

HULL AND PARTY REACH RIO ON WAY TO MONTEVIDEO

By the Associated Press.
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov.
24.—Secretary of State Hull and the United States delegation arrived here today aboard the S. S. American Legion on the way to the Pan-American conference at Montevideo, Uruguay.

Hull and the rest of the party were up at 4 a. m. to view the scenery as they entered the famous harbor of Rio de Janeiro following their two weeks at sea.

The Secretary issued a brief statement: "A test of the combined ability of all the American nations to outline an adequate international program of broader and more stable economic rehabilitation will come at Montevideo."

Foreign Minister Mello Franco invited the Americans to be the guests of Brazil during their two-day pause here.

CITY READY TO EMPLOY 600 WOMEN IN CIVIL WORKS JOBS

Notifies State Relief Director It Can Use Them in Public Institutions.

St. Louis today notified Wallace Crossley, State Relief Director, that at least 600 women could be employed in city institutions for two and a half months if $110,567 in Federal civil works funds were made available.

Crossley had requested that jobs for women be included in the civil works program. He has approved an initial allotment of $120,000 for work which is to start Monday and is to employ 4935 men. The city expects to obtain more funds later.

Hospital Commissioner Thompson, at a meeting of city officials yesterday, presented a memorandum telling how 550 women could be employed and it was decided to renew the request, previously turned down by Crossley, that the Health Department be permitted to employ 30 women clerks and 20 public health nurses.

Thompson's program calls for employment of nurses, seamstresses, laundresses, cooks, waitresses, clerks, scrub women, social service workers and others. The greatest number, 327, would be employed as attendants at City Sanitarium.

It was decided to renew application for approval of works on which Crossley suspended judgment Sunday because the cost of materials was deemed too high. Efforts will be made to find funds with which the city can meet part of the cost of materials.

Success in Transmitting Encephalitis Reported

Research Committee Suggests Ending Centralization of Work Here and Making Its Material Available to All.

Attempts to transmit encephalitis to 13 kinds of animals, with success in monkeys and white mice and possibly in mules, was reported to the Metropolitan Health Council at Clayton City Hall this afternoon.

The research committee, in a report read by its chairman, Dr. Ralph S. Muckenfuss of Washington University School of Medicine, recommended that centralization of the study in its hands be terminated. Its main object had been accomplished, he explained, with apparent determination of the cause in a form easily perpetuated for laboratory study. The disease took 216 lives in St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Centralization had been necessary for last summer's epidemic called for a prompt and concerted search for the cause, but that situation has passed and the science now could best be served by making the material available for many investigators along many lines.

Tests With Draft Animals. His report disclosed that attempts had been made in the Health Division laboratories of the city to transmit the disease to horses and mules, with probable success in the case of one mule. It disclosed also that Washington University experts are checking up on the claims of Dr. E. C. Rosenow of the Mayo Clinic, who has announced that material from the St. Louis epidemic confirmed his announcement of several years ago that he had found a germ in encephalitis. The prevailing theory, confirmed by the research committee's work, attributes the disease to a filterable virus, containing no discernible germ.

The attempt to transmit human encephalitis to horses and mules was directed by Dr. J. C. Willett, head of the Health Department laboratory section, with the aid of Dr. J. T. Jenneman, city veterinarian. The animals were from city stables, and were of such an age that they were to have been destroyed.

Of six inoculated, one horse and one mule showed symptoms somewhat like those of encephalitis in the human being. A second mule, inoculated with material from a laboratory monkey which had the disease, not only showed the symptoms, but the microscopic changes in brain tissue characteristic of encephalitis. An attempt to transfer the disease from this mule to another was unsuccessful.

The press of more promising work prevented that line of experiment from going far enough to establish conclusively that the disease had been transmitted, but the results, even in that fragmentary state of the work, were considered significant.

Most Tests Negative.

Attempts to find other susceptible animals were uniformly negative, with the exception of white mice and monkeys. Transmission to mice and monkeys has been covered in earlier reports of Dr. Muckenfuss and his laboratory associates, Dr. Charles Armstrong of the United States Public Health Service and Dr. Howard A. McCordock of Washington University. In addition, nasal transmission and immunization by convalescent serum in mice has been reported by Dr. L. T. Webster of Rockefeller Institute.

SENTENCE LIGHTENED BECAUSE OF DEFENDANT'S WAR SERVICE

But Drug Seller Who Thought He Was Citizen Faces Deportation After Prison Term.

The service of Vincent Logaglio in the American army during the World War, under the impression he was a citizen, gained him a light sentence when he pleaded guilty of selling narcotics today before Federal Judge Faris, but will not prevent his deportation.

"The Court is influenced somewhat by his serving what he then considered to be his country," Judge Faris remarked in sentencing Logaglio to 18 months' imprisonment. It has been the practice of the Court to impose heavy sentences on narcotic peddlers, such as Logaglio, who are not addicts.

Only after his arrest for selling cocaine on two occasions to a policeman, did Logaglio, who conducts a restaurant at 2808 Laclede avenue, learn he was not a citizen of the United States. He is 44 years old and lived here 27 years. His army service included nine months overseas.

The law provides that aliens convicted of violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic act shall be deported. Logaglio's attorney asked for a stay of execution, indicating his intention of turning his client over to Department of Labor authorities for immediate deportation. The Court denied the request.

Quits Fight for Afghan Throne.

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 24.—Ghulam Dastgir, so-called pretender to the throne of Afghanistan, today surrendered with his companions to Zahir Shah, young Afghan King. Dastgir's activities, coupled with those of two other agitators, a mad Fakir and the Tor Malang, led to troubles resulting in a British punitive air bombing expedition against hostile border villages in August.

4,000,000 BACK AT WORK!

Any movement that can take 4,000,000 men and women out of the ranks of the unemployed and put them back at work at decent wages merits the whole-hearted support of every man, woman and child in America.

This advertisement published in the interests of national business recovery, is sponsored by

FAMOUS-BARR CO.

You helped make this accomplishment possible, and of that fact you should rightfully be proud. But mark well this fact: We are not yet out of the woods. Your further unselfish co-operation is needed.

Large numbers of men and women are still without work. Jobs for these men and women must be created.

Your purchases now—of those things you need and must buy eventually—will create jobs for those who are still without work. Every dollar you spend now will help create work for some unemployed man or woman, and will rebound to your own advantage because it will hasten the return of good times for all of us.

At the same time every dollar you spend now will buy more for you than it will a few months hence, as wholesale prices are rising rapidly, and present stocks cannot be duplicated at the prices for which they were obtained a short time back.

WELLES RECALLED FROM CUBA, NEW ENVOY NAMED

President Roosevelt Orders Change in Ambassadors in Attempt to Bring Peace to Island.

JEFFERSON CAFFERY TO TAKE OVER POST

Washington Says People Must Be United Behind
Government Before U. S.
Can Grant Recognition.

By the Associated Press.
WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 24.—President Roosevelt will change Ambassadors in Cuba in the confidence of the early establishment of a government there meeting his conditions for recognition through stability.

Apparently satisfied that the provisional government of President Grau San Martin "will reach some peaceful agreement" in the "near future" which "may result in general support of a government," he announced his diplomatic transfer suddenly late last night.

Ambassador Sumner Welles, after a return to Cuba to complete the understanding, is returning to the United States as Assistant Secretary of State and Jefferson Caffery, present Assistant Secretary of State, is going to Havana.

Statement by President.
"We earnestly hope," said the President in his statement, "that in the near future through a spirit of compromise on all sides, the Cuban people themselves will reach some peaceful agreement which may result in general support of a government and thus avoid continued civil disturbance."

Whether the new move means recognition of the Grau San Martin provisional government was left to speculation but significance was attached to the presidential declaration urging "a spirit of compromise on all sides."

The apparent solution of the Cuban upheaval which has brought two revolutions in the last six months and as many new governments comes, incidentally, on the eve of the Pan-American conference in Montevideo.

Referring to the lack of recognition of the existing provisional government, the President said:

"We have not believed that it would be a policy of friendship and of justice to the Cuban people as a whole to accord recognition to any provisional government in Cuba unless such government clearly possessed the support and the approval of the people of that republic."

"We feel that no official action of the United States should at any time operate as an obstacle to the free and untrammelled determination by the Cuban people of their own destinies."

Sudden Change in Plans.
The Cuban declaration was issued last night just before midnight through Marvin H. McIntyre, a secretary to the President. It followed conferences in Washington by Ambassador Welles with the State Department and later with the President.

Only last Sunday Welles talked with the President here. He then was given the assignment to return to Cuba and help settle things. But it appears that the President and Welles and the State Department did a lot of negotiating after that and that some understanding has been reached in Cuba.

Opposition Forces Jubilant Over Roosevelt's Action.

By the Associated Press.
HAVANA, Nov. 24.—Cuba sees in plans to change the American Ambassador a further effort to force the Grau San Martin Government to make terms with its enemies.

President Roosevelt announced last night that Ambassador Sumner Welles would return here until "the termination of his mission," when he would rejoin the State Department.

Opposition forces were openly jubilant at the President's statement from Warm Springs, some even seeing a virtual ultimatum in it. Government leaders, including President Ramon Grau San Martin, were noncommittal.

Rumor spread during the night that President Grau had actually been given two weeks in which to put his house in order.

Oppositionists said that President Roosevelt in the statement diplomatically told the Cuban leader his Government setup did not meet with the requirements of the United States for recognition, inasmuch as it was not supported by the whole Cuban people.

They said, too, that the statement conveyed a polite threat that the United States would continue to withhold economic aid.

Opponents of Welles here have accused him of responsibility for the gathering of officers in the Na-

Text of Roosevelt's Statement On Change of Envoys to Cuba

By the Associated Press.
WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 24.—FOLLOWING is the statement of President Roosevelt announcing that Ambassador Welles will return from Cuba to duty at the State Department.

During the months which have passed since the fall of the Government of President Machado, we have followed the course of events in Cuba with a most friendly concern and with a consistent desire to be of help to the Cuban people.

Owing to the exceptionally close relationship which has existed between our two peoples since the founding of the Republic of Cuba and in particular because of the treaty relations which exist between our two countries, recognition by the United States of a government in Cuba affords in more than ordinary measure both material and moral support to that Government.

For this reason we have not believed that it would be a policy of friendship and justice to the Cuban people as a whole to accord recognition to any provisional government in Cuba unless such government clearly possessed the support and the approval of the people of that Republic. We feel that no official action of the United States should at any time operate as an obstacle to the free and untrammelled determination by the Cuban people of their own destinies.

We have been keenly desirous during all this period of showing by deed our intention of playing the part of a good neighbor to the Cuban people. We have wished to commence negotiations for a revision of the commercial convention between the two countries and for a modification of the permanent treaty between the United States and Cuba. On the economic side, we have been hopeful of entering upon a discussion of such measures as might be undertaken by common consent between the two Governments which would redound to the benefit of both the American and Cuban peoples.

No Prejudice or Partiality. No progress along these lines can be made until there exists in Cuba a provisional Government which, through the popular support which it obtains and which through the general co-operation which it enjoys, shows evidence of genuine stability.

As has already been officially stated, the Government of the United States has neither partiality for nor prejudice against any faction or individual in Cuba. It will welcome any provisional Government in Cuba in which the Cuban people demonstrate their confidence. We earnestly hope that in the near future through a spirit of compromise on all sides the Cuban people themselves will reach some peaceful agreement which may result in general support of a Government and thus avoid continued disturbance with its attendant tragic loss of life and grave prejudice to the social and economic interests of the Republic.

Ambassador Welles is returning to Havana within the next few days. As previously announced, upon the termination of his mission, which will be in the near future, he will return to Washington to resume his former duties as Assistant Secretary of State and will be replaced by Mr. Jefferson Caffery, now serving as Assistant Secretary of State.

It is attributable to the insertion by President Wilson of one fatal word in the gentlemen's agreement suggested by Col. House.

Wilson wrote in "Probably." "The document as cabled by Col. House definitely committed the President to war, subject, of course, to the assent of Congress—in the event of rejection by Germany of a conference into which he was prepared to enter with a pledge to the Allies to support their minimum terms."

"The President in his reply inserted the word 'probably' in front of the undertaking. . . . The real explanation probably is that President Wilson was afraid of public opinion in the U. S. A. and Sir Edward Grey was frightened of our Allies."

"Looking back on this period. . . . It is clear that if Col. House's plan had been acted upon, the most that could have been hoped from such a conference. . . . would have been the earlier entry of the United States into the struggle and the shortening of the war which that event would have brought about."

BRITISH WARNING TO FRANCE
To Raise Duties on Goods from Across Channel If Surtax Continues
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 24.—Walter Runciman, president of the British Board of Trade, announced in the House of Commons yesterday that England would put a higher tax on French goods unless France removed its surtax on English goods.

He said unless it was removed at an early date that Britain would be compelled to impose special additional duties on a range of French goods, "roughly equivalent to the amount of discrimination against British goods by France."

MISSOURI HOUSE DEFERS ACTION ON LIQUOR CONTROL

Spends Lot of Time Talking About Ways to Speed the Bill, Then Lays It Over to Next Week.

BONE-DRY REPEALER
GOES TO PERFECTION
It Is Amended by McCawley, Author of State Prohibition Law, to Take Effect When Signed.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 24.—Consideration of liquor control legislation was laid over today by the House until Monday afternoon, through a week-end adjournment, after several hours of debate, in which no progress was made on the pending bill.

Most of the time was spent in discussing methods of speeding up action on the control bill, none of which was adopted, or in debate on matters not in the bill.

The House turned from the liquor bill for about five minutes, just before adjournment, and perfected the McCawley "bone dry" law, without debate and without a record vote. The bill now goes on the House calendar for passage.

This action, in perfecting the repeal measure without any discussion, was in marked contrast to stormy scenes in the House in the regular session, earlier this year, when a repeal bill was rejected in the House, after it had passed in the Senate.

One amendment, by Representative McCawley of Jasper County, added an emergency clause to the repeal bill, which would make the repeal of the "liquor store" law effective as soon as the bill is signed by the Governor. McCawley is author of the "bone dry" law.

Dramshop Fight Postponed.
In considering the liquor control bill, an attempt to obtain a direct test of House sentiment of legalizing the old form of dramshop, with stricter regulation, and with the name of "liquor store" instead of dramshop, was sidetracked until next week.

Representative Christy of Jefferson County announced he would introduce an amendment legalizing dramshops, which incorporates virtually all of the provisions of a bill he had introduced, which was killed by the House Committee on Criminal Justice.

Christy asked consent of the House to have the proposed amendment printed, for consideration of members, and that the amendment be taken up Monday. After more than an hour of argument, the motion to print the proposed amendment was defeated, 58 to 53. The vote did not constitute a test.

After further debate, Representative Weakley of Pike County urged the House to "stop wasting time on this bill and wait for the Senate liquor bill."

There has been no direct test so far on legalizing the open saloon, but surprising strength was developed yesterday afternoon on adoption of an amendment by a close vote, striking out of the bill a declaration of policy against the repeal of the open saloon.

Proponents of the dramshop system were further heartened by decisive action of the House against legalizing the sale of intoxicating liquor by the drink in hotels, restaurants and cafes. This amendment was adopted by a vote of 51 to 37, with some of the drys joining the anti-prohibitionists in its support.

PARK TO CARRY UTILITIES FIGHT TO SENATE FLOOR

Group in That Body, by Secret Vote, Kills Bills in the Interest of Public Ownership of Utilities.

MEMBERS MOSTLY FROM BIG CITIES
Governor Will Try to Have Measures Taken Up in Open — How Hearing Was Conducted.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 24.—Gov. Park prepared today to carry to the floor of the Senate his fight with the public utility lobby, following action of the Senate Committee on Municipal Corporations which, in a secret session late yesterday, voted to kill the municipal utility bills of the Governor's public works program.

The Governor had urged the passage of the bills to provide employment in the depression period and to give municipalities the same powers in building self-liquidating utility plants that privately-owned corporations now have. It is the Governor's intention to attempt to force a vote on the bills in the open on the floor of the Senate, notwithstanding the committee's action.

What Bills Permitted.
The bills would have applied only to cities having populations of less than 75,000, in which a private utility may obtain a franchise by a bond issue to build a municipal plant a two-thirds vote is required, and even then no city can issue bonds for a larger amount than 15 per cent of the assessed valuation of the city.

The bills if passed would have permitted cities, by a majority vote, the same as required for franchises for private utilities, to purchase or build municipal utility light, gas or water plants by a bond issue to be paid solely out of the earnings of the plants.

A fourth and companion bill, authorizing cities to build sewer systems, was reported favorably by the committee. There are no privately-owned sewer systems and no lobby appeared against the sewer bill. However, even on that, the committee recommended an amendment to require a two-thirds vote.

"I regret," Gov. Park said, "that the committee refused to permit the Senate to vote on the question of whether people of the cities of the State shall have the same rights that public utility corporations are now accorded."

"I will confer today with several Senators with a view to attempting to have these bills taken up and voted on in the Senate notwithstanding the adverse report of the committee."

Members of the Committee.
The members of the Municipal Corporations Committee are Frank P. Briggs of Macon, chairman; Joseph H. Brogan, St. Louis; Michael E. Casey, Kansas City; Emmett J. Crouse, St. Joseph; George D. Clayton, Hannibal; Michael E. Kinney, St. Louis; William F. Depelheuer, St. Louis; Edwin Nolte, St. Louis; and Cliff Titus, Joplin. All are Democrats except Depelheuer, Nolte and Titus, who are Republicans.

The vote in the committee, having been taken in secret session, was not disclosed officially, but is reported to have been seven against the bills and two for them. Senator Clayton has been outspoken in support in the measures and Senator Briggs, the chairman, has been considered favorable to them.

In its refusal to permit a Senate vote, the committee has directly repudiated the leadership of the Governor, who made a strong plea for the legislation in a message to the Legislature. In addition to his public demand for the passage of the bills as a matter of right, the Governor has privately urged on Democratic legislators that it would be a grave political mistake for the Democratic legislature to refuse to grant the voters of a city the same rights that were granted to the privately-owned utility corporations.

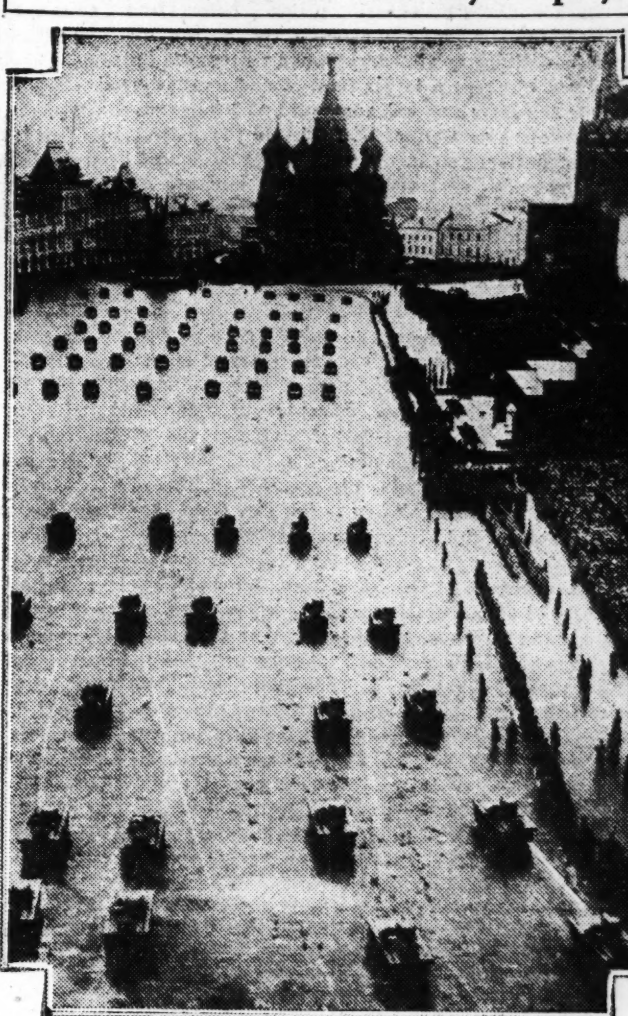

"I prefer to advocate and recommend the side of the people rather than the side of the utilities," the Governor said in a special message to the Legislature. "To me it is inconceivable that even the paid lobbyists of public service corporations will seriously contend that the voters of such cities should be denied rights now enjoyed by these companies."

In an earlier message, discussing the same subject, the Governor said: "May the time never come in Missouri when public service corporations are more powerful than the people."

Lobbyists in Capital.
From the beginning of the special session of the Legislature the utility bills have attracted much attention, largely because of the gathering of representatives of the utilities in opposition to them. Chief among these were Frank J. Boehm, vice-president of the Union Electric Light and Power Co. of St. Louis; Albert C. Laun, real estate and tax agent of the same company, and Charles H. Mayer of St. Joseph, who appeared for the Henry L. Doherty interests.

SARRAUT CABINET FALLS IN FRANCE ON FINANCE BILL

Chamber Votes 'No Confidence' Despite Plea of Premier to Save the Franc 'From Hemorrhage.'

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Nov. 24.—The Cabinet of Premier Albert Sarraut was defeated on a confidence vote in the Chamber of Deputies late last night, and at 3 a. m. the entire ministry resigned.

The Cabinet had been in power but four weeks. The vote in the Chamber was 321 to 247. President Lebrun remained up through the early morning hours and prepared for consultations looking to the forming of a new Government.

Official sources said today they expected President Lebrun to ask Georges Bonnet, Minister of Finance in the Cabinet of Sarraut, to form a new Cabinet. Lebrun is known to admire Bonnet and is said to be hopeful of a quick selection of a financial ministry in order to avert danger from the franc.

Herriot Unwilling to Accept.
Friends of Edouard Herriot, former Premier, insisted the time was not ripe for him to resume power. Through the lobbies of the Chamber of Deputies was heard the prediction that Lebrun would offer the premiership to Herriot as a courtesy and that Herriot would refuse.

Herriot has just recovered from a serious illness, and objects to being in the Ministry on Dec. 15, the anniversary of France's default on payment of its war debts to the United States when he was Premier. Another possible choice is Camille Chautemps, who was Minister of Interior in the Sarraut government. Chautemps thinks he would receive the support of the Socialists.

Weakness of Franc.
A few hours before the debate in the Chamber the franc had weakened in the exchange market and a Bank of France loss of 3,000,000 francs in gold in recent weeks.

GOVERNMENT AND PUBLIC CONFIDENCE.

One of the most serious charges brought against the Hoover administration was the complaint that it had tampered with facts. When Dr. Ray Hall was ousted from the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in 1931, it was charged that his removal was caused by his refusal to alter the bureau's report on the balance of international payments as to conceal the damage done to our international trade by the administration's tariff policy. Later, Dr. E. H. Stewart, veteran chief of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, was discharged when the reports of his bureau disclosed a larger total of unemployment than the amount which was admitted by his superior, Secretary of Labor William N. Doak. In the general census of unemployment, too, terms were so defined as to understate by some millions the numbers of the jobless, and officials, in an apparent effort to cure the depression by denying its existence, persisted in minimizing the volume of unemployment.

There was an expectation that the New Deal would change all this. Miss Frances Perkins, able and vocal critic of the preceding administration's garbled unemployment figures, was made Secretary of Labor. Dr. Isador Lubin and Dr. Willard Thorp, distinguished experts both, were appointed to head, respectively, the bureaus of Labor Statistics and of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. The administration pledged itself not to deceive the people with illusive forecasts of imminent recovery. Happily, proof that it is not keeping this pledge is lacking in the charges that it is not doing so. The chief accuser is Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican National Committee. The administration officials whose word, we may be sure, carries more conviction than the biased assertions of Mr. Sanders, say it is not so.

Nevertheless, a rupture has opened between Gen. Johnson and the Federal Reserve Board. The general charged that bulletins of the board did not correctly reflect conditions, so the latest issue of the Reserve Bulletin presents only basic tables.

Mr. Sanders makes much of this, but the Baltimore Sun, not an administration organ, pools the charges of suppression. Says the Sun:

If this were the whole story, there would be a strong presumption of accuracy in favor of Mr. Sanders' charge. But one additional circumstance must be taken into account. While the Reserve Bulletin usually includes nothing but interpretative matter in the department headed "Review of the Month," it has sometimes departed from this custom in the past. In March, last, for example, just after the banking crisis, the department was devoted to reports of the President's proclamation of a bank holiday, to the text of the Emergency Banking Act and to various other official orders and bulletins in connection with the restoration of banking policy. This procedure, adopted in exceptional circumstances, long before the Recovery Administration was even conceived and long before Gen. Johnson ever undertook to criticize the use of statistics by Federal agencies, would seem to afford a precedent, even an exact parallel, for what has been done with the November Reserve Bulletin.

For 30 years, the board has provided the banking and business community and to the general public accurate and impartial monthly statistics of financial, industrial and business conditions. Its research staff is composed of the most disinterested and technically proficient men in the capital. The nation is entitled to know what these men have found; to have the trend of business summarized for it by these experts in their own words. Let us hope that this will continue to be the case.

It is also charged that news of the Treasury is being withheld from the press, a charge arising from new restrictions after the Acheson and Sprague resignations. Of this, a Washington correspondent of the Post-Dispatch says:

The order puts into effect the same kind of centralized news system which operates in virtually all the departments of the Government.

It is enough to say that no government fully reveals its fiscal policy. As Walter Lippmann said yesterday:

Treasury policies are never debated in full public view; the speculative character of the money markets always compels a large measure of secrecy and censorship. The British do not publish what the equalization fund is doing from day to day, nor do they say just what precisely they are aiming at in monetary matters. In the days when the Federal Reserve System, rather than the President, was managing the American currency, there was plenty of mystery and secrecy.

The great point is the degree of confidence reposed by the people in the administration. This, we feel, is very great. To continue so, it must be deserved. For the administration to forfeit so fine an asset would, indeed, be a tragedy of momentous import.

CODED GOLF.

Since everything else is being coded, why not golf? There's the question the golf pros are asking. They feel that the art of golf has no unknown arcana now. What's that? That it has no untraveled penitents. Exactly what do they mean by all those alien words? In good, old, money-bible staccato, they mean they know it all. From the instant of that fatal golf shot when the decision is made to play golf, throughout the long, eventual journey, sunned by laughter and washed by tears, to the silencing final, the golfer knows, "the vision of fulfilled desire," the holy grail—that sapphire morning when the votary has cracked the course record—they know every step of the way. They know precisely what everybody ought to do, with every club, in every contingency, and they propose to get together, adopt a universal form of instruction, make everybody play every shot exactly as everybody else, from the matriculating tee to the last green's valdicator. By the minaret of Moscow, by the shadow of the Kremlin, by the tomb of Lenin, what a dreadful fate for golf!

TANTRUM AND WISERACK.

It's too bad there isn't somebody to tell important officials what to say, or, rather, what not to say, in moments of big decision and high emotional stress. If we had, for example, an Emily Post of public affairs whom Dr. Sprague might have consulted about that letter of resignation, he would, we are persuaded, have written a different note. Instead of a polemic outburst, he would simply have expressed regret that he was not in accord with the administration's policies and was, therefore, resigning.

And Mr. Morgenthau, the acting Secretary of the Treasury Department, would have been counseled, too, we fancy, that facetiousness, bordering on flippancy, is at times as malodorous as a display of temper. Sprague or no Sprague, it is reasonably certain.

as Mr. Morgenthau ventured, that the sun will shine and the birds will sing, but would not silence have been the happier procedure?

Let the great and the near-great ever remember that—
He who fies off the handle lighteth on his head.
Thou shalt not wisecrack.

HOW MUCH WILL RUSSIA BUY?

Among the important considerations involved in the recognition of Soviet Russia is the matter of trade. Estimates of sales to the U. S. S. R. range from low figures, on the theory that Russia will be unable to pay for purchases here, up to totals as high as a half-billion or a billion dollars annually.

It was reported from Washington in July that Russia was preparing to buy a billion dollars' worth of goods in this country. Senator Brookhart has estimated that Russia would buy 1,000,000 bales of American cotton (about $14,000,000 worth), as well as "every pound of the $30,000,000 of surplus livestock products in this country." Senator Norris estimated in June that Russia would buy 1,000,000 bales of cotton, $10,000,000 worth of meat products and $400,000,000 worth of machinery. The Amtorg has been negotiating for several months with the RFC for credits totaling $50,000,000, to buy cotton, copper, sugar, machinery and other products.

It is important, in the presence of these conflicting estimates, to know what an American writer close to Russian affairs thinks about the matter. Such an authority is Louis Fischer, Moscow correspondent of the Nation. His statement is concise: "I believe the Soviet Government needs, and can buy in 1934, American goods worth at least $100,000,000." This will include largely, Mr. Fischer thinks, railway equipment, machinery, cotton, cattle, copper and soybean sugar. "To a certain extent," President Roosevelt has it in his power to determine the character of the second five-year plan," he adds. That is, if Russia obtains credits, it will build gigantic hydro-electric power stations, more steel mills, a large auto plant and other factories to produce consumers' goods. If credits are not forthcoming, the plan will be confined to canalization, road building and development of light consumers' industries.

On the willingness and ability of Russia to pay for imports, Mr. Fischer also is specific. He says: "Experience has convinced most persons that the Soviet Government pays its bills loyally, willingly and punctually."

Another American thoroughly familiar with Russia is Col. Hugh L. Cooper, consulting engineer on the $110,000,000 Dnieperstroy power works and other Soviet projects. His estimate of possible American exports to Russia is a billion dollars annually, though he has not said that this would be the total sales in the year following recognition. It seems a large figure, but Col. Cooper has statistics to back it up. Speaking in St. Louis two years ago, he pointed out that Russia's annual imports at that time averaged only $1 per capita. The Soviet leaders hope to build up Russia's buying power to three billion dollars annually, which, said Col. Cooper, would average $15 per capita. If this seems a great increase, it may be compared with the import figure for the rest of Europe, which, in 1929, was $52 per capita. On these trade possibilities, Col. Cooper commented, in testifying before a House committee: "It seems to me we were asleep at the switch if we don't look into this."

THE DEPENSIONED INSULT.

Those companies that were once his have decided to take Samuel Insull's name off the pension roll, and with the remittances no longer flowing in, it is possible that Athens will not be so cordial to her Anglo-American guest as she has been. That sort of thing does happen, you know.

The income of $11,000 a year, which the former first citizen of Chicago was getting, may not be colossal, though, as Pindar remarked, it's a jolly remove from a pittance. Take those dollars and put them into Greek currency and one has quite a stack. He has, to be precise, 1,352,608 drachmas. Has, did we say? That is what Insull hasn't. And "Oh, the difference to me!" as Sappho sighed; or was it Wordsworth? Well, whatever poet tossed it off, warbled a fact.

Between Hymettus and Pentelicon there is still, as always, a bit of sky to gaze at wistfully. Time has leveled the long walls from the city to Piræus, and the marble of Parthenon is memories, and the night winds bear no echo of old revels to the ears of Dionysos, and in

The elm-wood and the oaken,
There where Orpheus harped of old,
And the trees awoke and knew him,
And the wild things gathered to him.

There is now the silence of lost legends. Behold the ghost of a penniless Insull communing with things that were!

PROSPERITY COMES TO PLATTSMOUTH.

While our city administration holds cautiously aloof from any extended public works program, it might be well to cast an eye northward, to the juncture of the Platte and Missouri rivers, to see what public construction has done for one town. Six months ago, the 4000 people of Plattsmouth, Neb., and the 15,000 others living in Sarpy County, were in the throes of depression. In Plattsmouth, 1200 men were registered as unemployed, 125 families were on charity relief, many houses were vacant, business was at a standstill.

Then came a lucky break—the Government began work on the Missouri River channel, and paving was started on nearby Federal and State highways. Several hundred men were employed on these projects, and reviving local business took others, until today every man who is able and wants to work is a wage earner. Recipients of charity have been reduced to the disabled and sick, and the local welfare board has been disbanded. Every house and apartment in the town is occupied. Says a news account: "Today, Plattsmouth is perhaps the most prosperous community in the country."

This town offers a spectacular demonstration of how public works can bring revival; how money is put in circulation by such a program to lift a local community, and eventually state and nation, out of depression. Because of its larger size and more complex problems, no such over-night change would result in St. Louis, of course. But there is no reason to think that what revived Plattsmouth would not greatly stimulate St. Louis. Nor should we forget that St. Louis, in its payment of Federal taxes, is helping Plattsmouth's recovery, while its own just claims on public works money are neglected.

TODAY and TOMORROW

Denunciation and Education

THE monetary policy of the United States is not likely to be settled by losing our temper. In a crisis, it is best to be cool, rather than the present value of the Australian, Danish and New Zealand currencies than the present value of the English pound. He may be wrong. But in seeking a level appropriate to American conditions, he is doing exactly what practically everyone else has done who has managed a currency anywhere in the world.

So it would seem that the intelligent thing to do is to examine his data and find out whether his judgment as to how the dollar should be valued is or is not reasonable. It may be that Prof. Warren over-estimates his ability to calculate exactly the value of the dollar. It has been my impression that he does. But the road to stabilization can only be taken by coming to a conclusion as to what is the right American price at which to stabilize.

To denounce "inflation" is a very good thing, but it is not relevant to this crucial question.

Another point of some collateral interest which is overlooked by the opposition is the social philosophy of the Warren school. Because his theories fall within the general classification of a "managed currency," it is generally assumed that he is an exponent of a "managed economy." The contrary is true. Here, for example, is what his colleague, Prof. Pearson, had to say a few weeks ago: "Recovery calls for such an extension of Government activities as to endanger our type of economic and political system, or else requires a rapid rise in prices so that an economic system based on profits from individual enterprise can function."

It is no secret that the Cornell economists have had very little sympathy for, and are in fact profoundly critical of, most of the NRA, of the AAA, of the public works program, of the large debt program, in a word, of the collectivist tendencies of the Columbia branch of the Brain Trust.

And it is evident enough that the present ascendancy of these Cornell economists dates from the demonstration that the NRA and AAA, however valuable they may be as measures of permanent reconstruction, were not able to promote recovery.

All these considerations do not prove that the Warren gold policy is sound. I do not know whether it is sound. But they do show that it is entitled to sympathetic exposition and study, and they suggest that, before a campaign of denunciation is organized, it would be useful to have a campaign of education.

I do not see why the President does not do something to help the people to understand his policy. It would be ever so much better than calling them Tories.

MENDICANT KENTUCKY.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.
A handling Kentucky, but in hand, begging the Federal Government to take care of its needy, whom the State itself can't or won't care for. It would be unfair to hold Gov. Laffoon responsible for this humiliating spectacle. He only shares the responsibility with the Legislature, which failed to provide the necessary funds, and with the people of the State, who failed to require their provision.

Is Business on the Uptrend?

From Editorial Research Reports.

TRADE reports from New York City indicate a marked improvement in retail sales since the middle of the month. An increase in retail sales at the present time is considered particularly important because of the over-expansion of industrial production in the early summer. It may be that another expansion of production depends upon retail sales cutting deeply into surplus stocks accumulated in the summer.

The New York Times index of business activity, published Nov. 19 for the week ending Nov. 11, rose from 72.5 to 73.7. The use of 4 point was the first in five weeks. The index is based upon six series, adjusted seasonally: freight car loadings, steel mill operations, electric power production, automobile production, lumber production, cotton forwardings. The index takes at 10 (normal) a rate of business activity which roughly corresponds to the average rate in the first half of 1930.

In the middle of March, 1933, the index fell to 61. Then it rose every week for four months, until it reached 90 in the week ending July 15. Since then it has receded, but there were three weeks in which the recession was temporarily halted. These were the weeks ending Aug. 15, Sept. 30 and Oct. 7.

It is still too soon, of course, to determine if the slight rise shown in the week ending Nov. 11 also was temporary, or will prove the beginning of a steady increase. In this connection, it may be pointed out that the weekly index of general business compiled by the Economist and composed of 17 series shows a slight decrease for the week ending Nov. 11.

Some observers maintain that stock prices are a more sensitive barometer of business conditions than indexes of business activity, because the latter are always a week or more old, whereas business and financial leaders begin to buy stocks at the very moment they see business improvement in the country. Stock prices have been rising up on the whole, since the end of October. However, much of this rise is being ascribed to a flight to stocks as insurance against inflation.

It has been characteristic of recovery from depressions of the past that progress has been irregular. The Annual index of business activity shows that 19 months elapsed between low and normal in the recovery from the depression of 1920-21, and that in seven of these months business activity had a temporary setback. Ten months were required for recovery from the pre-war depression of 1914-15, according to the Axi-Houghton business activity index, and two of these 10 months showed setbacks.

In seven of the 15 months of recovery from the panic of 1907, business activity was lower than or the same as in the month before. The Axi-Houghton index shows that, in only seven of the 13 months of recovery from the panic of 1893 was business activity higher than in the month before, and in only 10 of the 15 months of recovery from the depression of 1894-97. Recovery from the long depression of the '30s required 17 months, and in seven of those months, business was worse or no better than in the preceding month.

Since the low of March 15, 1933, the New York Times business index has shown advances in 21 weeks and recessions in 12 weeks.

DOING BETTER.

From the Jacksonville (Fla.) Times-Union.
Since beer became legal, Uncle Sam has slammed $75,000,000 down in his jeans. Beasly paying $1,000,000 a year for prohibition enforcement that did not prohibit and failed to enforce.

The DAILY MERRY GO ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.
UNQUESTIONABLY Gen. Johnson has come back from his Midwest barnstorming tour more solid with Roosevelt than ever. Some people thought the trip would make or break the General. If so, the former is the case.

One of the most significant after-effects of the trip is the President's decision not to tamper with the NRA at the coming session of Congress. A lot of people have been advocating changes. But just before he left for Washington Springs, the President indicated to his Recovery Administrators that the NRA Act was to stand pat.

Criticism of the NRA in certain newspaper, farmer and banking circles apparently leaves Roosevelt unmoved. He tells his friends that the long-term effects of the NRA, not immediate effects, are important.

Above all, the President has become enthusiastic about the work of Gen. Hugh Johnson. There was a time several months ago when he had his doubts about the hard-fisted ex-cavalryman. But that is all past.

F. D. R. gets a great kick out of Johnson's colorful talking. The two men see eye-to-eye in "cracking down" on chiseling victors and profiteers. If anything, the President is considerably more militant about drastic action than Johnson. When Johnson, during a White House conference with steel operators on the "captivity" coal mine strike, lashed out at them in good old-fashioned barrack language, Roosevelt beamed in genuine appreciation.

The President is constantly urging Johnson not to pull his punches. The first thing he told him when he returned from the West was to rush completion of the new plan for drastic NRA enforcement. Johnson has since been concentrating on it.

Forgotten Man.

PROF. OLIVER MITCHELL P. WENTWORTH SPRAGUE, special adviser to the Treasury Department, who resigned on Tuesday, had for some time been the New Deal's chief forgotten man. Prof. Sprague, before this job, was a happy man. He taught economics at Harvard and the University of Tokyo, received a salary never more than $6000. Then three years ago he was suddenly catapulted into the Treasury as special adviser to the Bank of England. His stipend was $25,000.

A few months ago Franklin Roosevelt asked him to advise the Treasury. The salary was only $2000. But Sprague had taught Roosevelt when the President was a youngster at Harvard. He accepted with alacrity.

But since his first day with the New Deal, Sprague had been on the side line. He was a "forgotten man" man. Roosevelt's financial ideas were different. He recommended the stabilization of the dollar at the London Conference. Roosevelt did not. He opposed Prof. Warren's gold-bug plan. Roosevelt overruled him.

SARRAUT CABINET FALLS IN FRANCE ON FINANCE BILL

was made known (about $130,000,000 gold).

The test vote was on a minor amendment to the Government financial program. A previous vote had given Sarraut a majority of 80. The Center Majority group in the chamber, which had rallied to save the Cabinet, deserted when the Premier showed weakness by conceding a change in his bill which previously he had refused.

Sarraut made an appeal to "save the franc from financial hemorrhage."

This is the twenty-third of November and the budget has not yet started. Sarraut said: "The financial hemorrhage continues. Bonds are going down. Treasury bonds are not renewed."

Wins First Test Vote.
His was the third battle in succession to fall since Jan. 1, while attempting to save the franc.

The vote of confidence that preceded the overthrow of the Cabinet was in support of Sarraut's recommendation to separate the question of cutting the pay of Government employees from consideration of the entire financial program.

In his appeal to the Deputies, Sarraut disregarded threats of a general strike which came from civil employes in protest against pay cuts. The cuts were to be graduated, from one-half of 1 per cent to 8 per cent.

Herriot, who returned to the Chamber this week after a long illness, supported the Government without enthusiasm.

"What worries me," he said, "is tomorrow. I am anxious to avoid the bad hours of the 1925 inflation, but I have no enthusiasm for Sarraut's plan."

Government leaders had stated that if the budget were not balanced by low taxes and economy measures inflation may result.

TWO GIVE BOND ON PIG PROFITEERING CHARGES

St. Paul Commission Men Accused of Cheating Federal Government.

By the Associated Press. ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 24.—Two South St. Paul livestock commission men gave bail yesterday in indictments alleging they profited improperly during recent Federal pig purchasing as the Government sought to raise prices.

They and three others were indicted by a Federal grand jury in Aberdeen, S. D., last week in what a Government investigator said was the first of several cases planned against alleged "scalpers."

The two are Frank King and Sidney A. Johnson, president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the King Pig Co. Trial was set for May 1 in Aberdeen.

The Federal District Attorney's office announced that M. E. Schlessinger, vice-president of the King company, and Donald B. McIntyre, an employee, would furnish bond later. Jay H. Bennett, Aberdeen livestock buyer also indicted, is at liberty there on bail.

Specific charges of forging bills of lading, defrauding the Federal Government by use of false writings, using the mails to defraud and conspiracy to defraud were returned by the grand jury.

James R. Williams of Washington, Department of Agriculture investigator, said the Government charged that $10,000 in improper profits had been made by sale of animals to the Government, which offered a premium for them.

It alleges further that 12 carloads of pigs were sent to South St. Paul for marketing after being purchased in drought-affected areas of that State, and that nine carloads bought in Western Minnesota went to the Chicago market.

It contends an average of $9.50 a hundredweight was received compared with about $7.50 which was paid farmers, that bills of lading were forged, and that names of several Aberdeen citizens were used on those covering the South Dakota shipments.

MRS. IRMA T. MEYER SUES AGAIN, THIS TIME FOR DIVORCE

Suit for divorce was filed at Clayton yesterday by Mrs. Irma T. Meyer against Theodore F. Meyer Jr., president-treasurer of the National Veneer Package Co.

Mrs. Meyer, who previously had filed suit for separate maintenance against Meyer and a $100,000 alienation of affections suit against Miss Mildred Bischoff, an employee of his company, alleges general indignities. She is asking custody of two daughters and a son, alimony and support money. Meyer filed a general denial. They were married in 1914 and separated in 1932, according to the divorce action. Mrs. Meyer charges that her husband unjustly accused her of being extravagant, made all purchases himself during the last part of their married life, was fault-finding with her and the children and embarrassed her in the presence of friends. She resides at 6372

Forsythe boulevard and Meyer at High Ridge in Jefferson County, where he filed suit for divorce. Alleged extravagance was his principal charge in his petition.

$10,000,000 AIRPORT PROGRAM UNDER CWA

Fund Set Aside for Projects Which Will Give 50,000 Men Jobs.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—An administration determination to "stimulate private flying" Eugene L. Vidal—director of aeronautics of the Department of Commerce—today disclosed $10,000,000 has been set aside from the civil works fund to construct landing fields in 2000 cities and towns.

More than $8,000,000 of the money allotted, he said, would go for wages to an estimated 50,000 men. Even the smallest village are eligible, and he urged that towns lacking a field or inadequately supplied submit early applications.

Recently the aeronautics branch of the department sent out questionnaires to determine how many planes would be purchased for private flying if the price was brought as low as $700. Early returns indicate thousands would buy.

"If the final results of the survey are favorable," said Vidal, "and the industry begins to produce airplanes to sell at a low price, the need for airports and landing fields will become enormously greater."

"The landing field program is a further step by the new administration to stimulate private flying. Other nations have encouraged this branch of aeronautics by encouraging subsidies. This is not a subsidy, but an investment in a relatively new industry which is important to the recovery program."

Vidal estimated the average cost of conditioning a field should be $5000, with only about $630 to be expended for material and the remainder to labor. A field should consist of two landing strips up to 300 feet long and 300 feet wide, except in locations where terrain or other conditions limit the area to the strip.

Vidal said that as soon as enough applications are received allotments within the various states will be made proportionately.

It was stated in city circles that some concerns, disturbed by trends responsible for the recent weakness of the franc, had taken out insurance as a precaution.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Assessing an administration determination to "stimulate private flying," Eugene L. Vidal, director of aeronautics of the Department of Commerce today disclosed $10,000,000 has been set aside from the civil works fund to construct landing fields in 2000 cities and towns.

More than $8,000,000 of the money allotted, he said, would go for wages to an estimated 50,000 men. "If the smallest villages are eligible, and he urged that towns lacking a field or inadequately supplied submit early applications. Recently the aeronautics branch of the department sent out questionnaires to determine how many planes would be purchased for private flying if the price was brought as low as $700. Early returns indicated thousands would buy.

"The final results of the survey are favorable," said Vidal, "and the industry begins to produce airplanes to sell at a low price, the need for airports and landing fields will become enormously greater. The landing field program is a further step by the new administration to stimulate private flying. Other nations have encouraged this branch of aeronautics by encouraging subsidies. This is not a subsidy, but an investment in a relatively new industry which is important to the recovery program." Vidal estimated the average cost of conditioning a field should be $100, with only about $600 to be expended for material and the remainder to labor. A field should consist of two landing strips up to 100 feet long and 300 feet wide, except in locations where terrain or other conditions limit the area to less strip.

INSURANCE ON GOLD STANDARD

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Brokers for Lloyd's are effecting insurance against France going off the gold standard, it became known today, charging 30 guineas per 100 guineas at 30 per cent.

It was stated in city circles that these concerns, disturbed by trends responsible for the recent weakness of the franc, had taken out insurance as a precaution.

ARMY, YALE AND TROJANS FAVORED TO WIN BY CONZELMAN

BOW
THE PLAY WILL ECIDE ISSUE
N BEARS' GAME
WITH BILLIKENS

Billkens Now 7-10
Favorites Over Bears

THE ARMY, Yale and the Washington University-St. Louis football game, scheduled for Thanksgiving day at Francis Field, has shown a leaning toward the Billkens that the y are now 7 to 10 favorites to win, with Washington Bears at even money, according to prices quoted by Tom Kearney's "big store."

By James M. Gould.

Will that Thanksgiving day game between the Washington Bears and St. Louis U. Billkens show there is quite a bit of snarl around 'own, be a "battle of lines" or a duel between the backfields? Figuring the answers might prove interesting as well as instructive, the question was put to Head Coach Jimmie Conzelman.

At the week-end of great football battles. In the undefeated, untied Cadets at Point are heavily favored in the gallant Middle of the West.

Coach Jimmie Conzelman did not let his statement somewhat hesitance, he was in accord with coaching rival, said Conzelman. "I don't care to say the game is going to be just a battle between lines. However, our line play is going to be mighty important."

It will be the line upon which the game will depend to stop such as Hurley and Kane of the line. Both these players are mighty fine and mighty shifty. Hurley and Kane are the linemen, and the line play is the key to the game. That's our line job, as I see it, now to stop Hurley and Kane before they reach the backfield.

Well, to paraphrase the Tennessee mountaineer who, informed that the Great War was on, opined "they've got a good day for it," I might be said that, in the Thanksgiving day battle expected "they've got good lines for it."

Present plans call for the Billkens to go out of town on Wednesday night, to get the players away from the pre-game publicity. Washington may do likewise, and also the Bears plan to make excursions "away from here" next week to practice some formations.

The Missouri-St. Louis game is all settled except as to date. Originally, it was scheduled by the coaches for Oct. 27; now it is the opening game of the season at a home-and-home agreement, have no objection to playing in Columbia, but they are not particularly anxious to set this "natural" for so early a date.

No All-Star Teams for Them:—Prep League Coaches Naming "Roll of Honor"

So Many Stars in "Prep" League Coaches Select a Roll of Honor Instead of Best Eleven Players

Last night at a meeting of the four coaches of the Preparatory School League teams, held at Christian Brothers College, it was decided that no all-star 1933 football team would be chosen.

The reason given for this move was that due to the number of outstanding players on all the teams the eleven "best men" in the respective positions could not be fairly chosen and if such a team were picked an injustice would obviously be done by other players perhaps just as capable.

The coaches decided to pick outstanding players from the four teams: Western Military Academy, McBride High, Christian Brothers High, and St. Louis U. High, and give each one "honor roll" recognition.

In doing this each coach submitted the names of the men whom he thought were worthy of such a distinction and no coach presented the names of the players on his own team.

In lining up the teams no right or left positions were given and the backfield men were merely labeled "backs."

All in all 28 were picked as the outstanding players of the year. Five ends, five tackles, four guards, two centers, and 12 backfield men comprised the squad.

According to the coaches the 1933 players were better in reference to playing ability this year than for many seasons past.

To indicate the strength of the Prep League teams it may be added that in 14 games outside of the circuit they lost only one. In these games 259 points were totaled in favor of Prep Leaguers against 64 for the opponents.

Western Military Academy, while not being able to win any game in the league, came through in outside competition and scored 79 points against 6 for its opponents, in four games, winning them all.

McBride High, while not being able to win any game in the league, came through in outside competition and scored 79 points against 6 for its opponents, in four games, winning them all.

Christian Brothers High, while not being able to win any game in the league, came through in outside competition and scored 79 points against 6 for its opponents, in four games, winning them all.

GUNNERS' FOES RATED STRONG IN PRO CIRCLES

Boasting a powerful scoring punch this season, the Detroit Indians, who plan joining the National League next year, will present a fast and heavy combination against the St. Louis Gunners in the professional football contest Sunday afternoon at the Public Schools Stadium.

The Michigan line is composed of big, beefy men and the backs are four ball-carrying players with plenty of speed.

With the exception of Harold Fears, 200-pound halfback, the other Detroit ball-carriers, Ben Brisse of Dayton University, Phil "Red" Sheppard, veteran National League star, and Joe Koss of St. Thomas College, are 180-pounders.

Brisse is the quarterback and Koss is fullback.

Two Titan Ends.

Gus Dorais, coach of Detroit University Titans, has two of his products, Falbo and Coogan, at the end positions. During their college days these two players were rated highly in the eyes of Dorais and followers of the Detroit eleven.

At the tackle positions the Indians have two all-American claimants, Les Jamison of Illinois University, and Don Ridler of Michigan University. These two players along with Smith of Michigan State College, and Miller of De Paul University of Chicago, the guards, and center Zugaris, a home-town boy, help form a powerful line.

Winning eight of their nine games this season, the Indians have counted at least three touchdowns in all their contests to date, with the exception of the battle with the Chicago Bears.

For the first time in several weeks Coach Henry will have all his regulars available. John Breidenstein, blocking halfback, who missed the Memphis and Oklahoma games on the Gunners' chafed up victories and erased previous tie scores from their season's books, will be ready to start. John is a sweet blocking back and his absence was felt.

With Breidenstein in shape, Quarterback Don Moses, Halfback Dick Frabm and Fullback Swede Johnston will round out the starting backfield. Joe Spudis, reserve signal-caller, Blake Workman and Cowboy Kyle, all will see action against the Indians.

McGill is Ready.

Leonard McGill sustained a leg injury in the Oklahoma game but will be ready Sunday. Ray Johnston, who filled in as a reserve and stood out among the local line men against the Chiefs, proved he was his own self and so it is a toss-up as to which of these guards will start. Homer Reynolds will be at the other guard.

Basketball Tryouts.

Basketball practice sessions for the Crystal City club, champions of the Greater St. Louis Girls' Basketball Association, have been scheduled for tomorrow at 8 p. m., and Sunday at 2 p. m., at the Maplewood High School Gymnasium.

Coach Eddie Davidson, who piloted the team to the title in both halves last year, is again in charge of the club. Davidson has issued a call for candidates and all girls basketball players wishing a tryout should report tomorrow or Sunday at Maplewood High School.

60 CHANGES IN RULES ADOPTED BY GOLF BOARD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—With the approval of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, Scotland, the Executive Committee of the United States Golf Association today announced adoption of a long series of changes in the rules, effective January 1, 1934.

Generally speaking the alterations are aimed at simplifying the language of the rules, clarifying ambiguities and bringing the code up to date and in conformity with modern conditions and modern golfing architecture.

The changes, approved by the Royal and Ancient, ruling body of the game in Great Britain at its fall meeting Sept. 26, and by the U. S. G. A.'s Executive Committee at its meeting yesterday, represent the fruit of a year's discussions between the two associations.

60 Changes Are Made.

All told, some alteration has been made in close to 60 of the definitions, general rules and stroke rules of the game. In a vast majority of these, however, the authorities have substituted simpler language or added or deleted a phrase to make the sense clearer. Many of them likewise have become part and parcel of the game through interpretations made from time to time by the U. S. G. A. or Royal and Ancient in ruling on ambiguities in the code. They have not previously, however, been written directly into the code.

Among the changes were:

A change in the definition of a hazard so that a path or bush no longer are considered hazards and scrapes and casual water and all tracks are excluded from the definition of hazards.

An amendment to rule 12 providing that unless the ball lies in or touches a hazard, the removal of loose impediments is not permitted, even though they are more than a club's length from the ball and even if the loose impediment lies in a hazard.

An amendment to rule 15, adding a provision that before striking at a ball in play, a player shall not improve the position of his ball by moving, bending or breaking anything fixed or growing.

An amendment to subdivision 1, rule 27, so that now where a ball is played from the teeing ground into a water hazard it may be teed. Formerly it had to be dropped.

A change in subdivision 2, rule 29, now omits the right given to outside clubs to refuse to allow persons not engaged in the match to stand at the hole.

In the stroke rules, some of the changes made were:

Subdivision 2, rule 8, has been altered to make the penalty two strokes instead of disqualification for playing one or more strokes with a wrong ball.

Rule 9 has been altered to make the penalty two strokes instead of one where a competitor's ball strikes himself, his caddy or his club.

Rule 13, subdivision 2, changed to increase the penalty from one stroke to two where a competitor on the putting green strikes the ball of his fellow-competitor. The same change is made in subdivision 5 where a competitor lifts his ball while his fellow-competitor's ball is in motion, both being on the green.

A number of alterations are made in the etiquette of the game, the most important of which require a player to immediately leave the green when the result of a hole has been determined. Formerly this provision simply provided against practice puts being taken when so doing would delay following players.

MIDWEST MAT BODY HOLDS SHOW TONIGHT

The first wrestling show to be offered by the newly organized Midwest Wrestling Association will be held tonight at the St. Ambrose Church Hall, Coopers and Wilson avenue. The organization recently received sanction from Seneca C. Taylor, Missouri State Athletic Commissioner, to hold matches.

Four bouts on the program will be headed by the finish match between two middleweights, Charley Kuehn of St. Louis and Gus Schrick of Detroit. Kuehn is a former Western A. A. U. champion.

In the semi-windup between Benny Maszola, St. Louis Italian, and Al Hammerle, St. Louis, Maszola will outweigh Hammerle, 144 to 138 pounds.

The preliminary matches will bring together John Anderson, St. Louis University grappling coach, against Al Saaz, well-known weight lifter, in the second event, and Wesley Vida of Wilber, Neb., and Howard Corrington, St. Louis, in the curtain raiser. This match will be at 160 pounds.

WIRAY'S COLUMN

Gymnasium Built.

ALTHOUGH the 23-year-old giant Ray Impellittere will not be given credit for having won by a knockout from veteran Tommy Loughran, as ruled by the referee of their fight at New York, it is evident that this 255-pound "hop" is really worth the consideration demanded for him by his trainer, Harry Lenny.

That a boxer with only one professional fight in his record and with only 13 informal boxing contests in his entire career could have all but stopped an opponent rated by many as the best heavy weight in the United States, only three years ago, is almost Impellittere's achievement is all the more remarkable because although almost entirely "gymnasium built," he showed a ring poise and ring wisdom that usually come only after long years of bitter experience. Loughran, the clearest heavyweight of today, was unable to disconcert him.

Built Up in Private.

FEW fighters who are "built up" and sent to the wars with only gymnasium work, unsupported by plenty of competition, ever stand the test.

But Impellittere seems to be an exception. For five years, ever since Ray was a youngster, Lenny has trained him in private and brought him along slowly.

He fought eleven tryout bouts before they sent him to the wars in earnest and he won them all by knockouts.

His first professional appearance was Aug. 10, 1932, when he met Jose Santos, a Portuguese fighter weighing 268 pounds, 6 feet 9 inches tall, with four years of ring experience and more than 50 fights in his record.

Santa had knocked out more than 50 per cent of his opponents, including some fair heavies like Ruggiero, Johnny Grosso, Hans Birke and that kind. It took Bear 10 rounds to stop Santa, which was as long as Schmeling lasted against the Californian Max.

Thus, Santa was a really formidable opponent for the novice tacker. But Impellittere stopped Santa in the ninth round!

Commission Takes a Hand.

HIS achievement was so remarkable that fighters of reputation refused to meet him, figuring there was everything to lose and little to gain.

This situation was brought to the attention of the commission which thereupon told Loughran, Risko and others that they could not fight again in New York unless they met Impellittere.

That was crashing the big league with both feet.

Although the commission refused to allow the referee's ruling in favor of Impellittere over Loughran to stand, and gave the verdict to Loughran on points, Impellittere made so strong an impression that many believe he will soon be a formidable rival for Carners, the champion.

If so, his arrival is timely. New blood is badly needed in this decadent fight division.

Still Carrying on.

AFTER 57 years the Yale-Yale football classic is still carrying on. A little bit dimmed from its former luster, the fifty-second renewal of this gridiron classic will be undertaken tomorrow at Cambridge.

With the exception of the Princeton-Yale series, which began in 1893, and will this year have its fifty-seventh renewal, the Harvard-Yale encounter has been the best sustained of all intercollegiate duels. Only one antedates both Yale-Harvard and Yale-Princeton classics; that is the Rutgers-Princeton series which began in 1869, but suffered many interruptions.

In the ancient days the Harvard-Yale game rated even higher than the Yale-Princeton struggle, although the Tigers and Bulldogs got more publicity, especially when they took this encounter to Manhattan Field, New York City. Those days did not last long, by the way—New York soon found that handling this feature was like taking a Bengal Tiger for a lap dog. The students almost took New York apart the night of each annual battle.

No Championship Bearing.

AS to this year's Harvard-Yale game, it will not make much of a dent on that portion of the football public which looks on gridiron battles from a national championship viewpoint. Neither Yale nor Harvard has excited much favorable comment, this year, and both have suffered defeats.

But the old grad, the undergrad and the grand old will all be there to see these teams battle. Tradition, if not football prestige, still makes this game one of the year's standouts.

Yale will be a slight favorite, although, playing on Harvard's home field, any slight advantage shown by the Blue's record may be wiped out.

Harvard's last game against Brown showed that the Eastern critics say, although only a bit of luck enabled the Crimson team to break the tie and win the game. A Boston critic writes: "Casey seems to have Harvard on the upswing. Yale should still rate the favorite, but the Cantabs will offer stiff resistance."

Which may seem to be damning the Crimson with faint praise.

stores promise you—whether you come by train or trolley, auto, bus or bicycle it should

NEW CHIEF TAX ADVISER NAMED FOR THE TREASURY

Columbia U. Professor Gets Post Which Had Been Accepted by Wisconsin U. Man.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Acting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announces the appointment of Prof. Rosewell Magill of Columbia University as chief tax adviser to the Treasury.

Prof. Magill will take the post which a week ago had been tendered to and accepted by Prof. H. M.
Groves of the University of Wisconsin.
In explaining the change, Morgenthau said that under rules of the Civil Service Commission Groves could not qualify for the position, and, moreover, "Magill was better qualified."

Morgenthau said that salaries of $10,000 a year, less the Government cut of 15 per cent, were being paid to Herbert E. Gaston, publicity man for the Treasury; Earle Baile, who will handle fiscal affairs, and Herman Oliphant, general counsel to the Secretary, William H. McReynolds, personnel and budget officer, is also paid $8500.

Salaries of Gaston, Baile and Oliphant are higher than those of the regular assistant secretaries of the Treasury.

Pet Protects Child From Mad Dog.
By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 24.—
Queenie, a little Belgian shepherd dog, yesterday attacked a large police dog suffering from rabies, and was bitten 10 times while she kept the big animal away from Donald Benn, her 3-year-old master. Her fight gave Lawrence Wehrwein, a neighbor, time to kill the mad dog with a shotgun. A veterinarian placed Queenie under observation.

'DOWNTOWN DAY' IN RETAIL STORES

Twenty-four Shops to Unite Saturday in Selling Event.

Tomorrow will be "Down Town Day" in downtown department stores, a number of men and women's specialty shops, furniture houses, jewelry and candy shops, when unusual buying opportunities will be offered to the public.

Twenty-four members of the Associated Retailers of St. Louis are uniting in this pre-Christmas sales event. New merchandise has been gathered from many points and emphasis is stressed on the low prices for which dependable merchandise can be bought.

Employment will be given several thousand extra saleswomen, and men for the lay to take care of the expected crowds of shoppers.

"Down Town Day" is planned to stimulate buying as a furtherance of the NRA campaign. Trainees and buses are expected to bring many people from nearby towns, attracted to the city by the unusual volume of newspaper advertising.
Clothing for adults and children, furniture and household articles, jewelry, candy and many Christmas gift possibilities are among the advertised merchandise in the "Down Town Day" sales.

"The public will have the opportunity to replenish wardrobes, house furnishings and other needs at a modest outlay and to take advantage of unusual merchandise offered from many lines of industry."

"Moreover, tomorrow's sales are in sympathy with the efforts of national leaders to bring business back to normal through individual spending for necessary goods, and through the volume of increased business to furnish employment to many men and women."

at 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

HADLEY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL HAS ROOM FOR 1000 MORE

Hadley Vocational School is not overcrowded, but has room for acceptable pupils, Assistant Superintendent of Instruction F. J. Jeffrey has announced, in answer to a report that the institution was too full. It has 1808 students, but can accommodate 2800.

"Pupils who have successfully completed the eighth grade," said Jeffrey, "may continue in ninth-grade work either at Hadley or in high school, and then enter vocational work in the tenth grade at Hadley. Older pupils, 15 to 20 years of age, are admitted at any time to special trade and commercial classes, for which younger pupils must have taken a reasonable amount of foundation work."

"We frequently have students who cannot meet entrance requirements applying for special courses.
The fact that they are not permitted to take up special lines of work is due to their inability to meet requirements which experience has shown to be necessary. Hadley has equipment for commercial and industrial training superior to that of any other public or private secondary school in the Central West.
New classes in shorthand and typewriting are being formed now."

KILLS BILL TO CONTROL USE OF STATE-OWNED AUTOS

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 24.—Democratic controlled House yesterday killed the Maxey bill to control the purchase and use of state-owned automobiles. The vote on passage of the bill was tied, 61-61, the votes for the bill being 15 less than the constitutional majority of 76 required. The 11 Republican members of the House joined with 50 Democrats, most of them from rural sections, in support of the measure. This bill would have created a state automobile board, with power to control the purchase of automobiles, make regulations for their use, and to act against any state official or employee using a state-owned motor vehicle for his private purposes or personal profit.

CWA FUNDS TO BE USED ON MEMORIAL PLAZA

Work of Final Grading and Initial Development Will Be Started Monday.

Work of final grading and initial development of the Memorial Plaza site will be started next Monday, with Federal funds from the new Civil Works Administration.

It is intended to have the plaza improved by next spring with grass, shrubbery and flowers. The development is to be carried to the same point as that of Union Station Plaza, which has been given an attractive appearance. The city does not have funds for final embellishment of either of these open spaces.

Memorial Plaza consists of the six blocks bounded by Twelfth boulevard and Market, Chestnut and Fifteenth streets, plus the adjoining block bounded by Pine, Olive, Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets. The last two buildings on the site, at the northeast corner of Fourteenth and Pine, are being razed, due to be gone next month. The city plans to notify the last two tenants of plaza property to vacate shortly. These are filling stations and parking lots at Twelfth and Pine and Thirteenth and Olive.

250 Men Will Get Jobs. Civil works funds will provide $100,000 for the plaza improvement, the city has been notified—$78,500 for labor, $18,000 for use of motor trucks owned by persons on relief rolls, and $3,000 for materials. About 75 men will be put to work Monday, but ultimately 317 men and 20 trucks will be engaged. The employees will include 250 laborers, 60 semi-skilled mechanics, 10 skilled mechanics, 13 technical men and four clerks.

The program calls for completion of the job by Feb. 15, but an extension of time may be required for sodding and other landscaping. The Park Division will be called on to direct this, and may seek additional Federal funds. Several old cellars on the site must be filled. Much of the property has been filled with new earth, but additional grading and shaping of the ground will be required. No provision has been made so far for laying sidewalks.

The grade of the eastern portion of the site has been changed to make it level. In connection with this, Market street was elevated eight feet at Thirteenth when widened. A bill is pending in the Board of Aldermen, and likely to be passed, for changing the grade of Pine and repaving it, between Twelfth and Fifteenth. It will be raised a maximum of 3 1/4 feet at Thirteenth. The city has most of the cost, estimated at $20,565, available in bond funds and will tax some abutting property. It is proposed to start this as soon as weather permits next year.

The Original Plans. The 1923 bond issue, providing for the plaza, called for a war memorial. In 1928 the Plaza Commission, Inc., designers of the adjacent Municipal Auditorium and Civil Courts Building, made public a design for the memorial structure and the general development of the plaza. The memorial, estimated then to cost $1,600,000, was to be on the block bounded by Chestnut, Pine, Thirteenth and Fourteenth.

On the blocks to the east and west of this edifice the commission suggested other public buildings could be erected in the future. It proposed a cascade along the Fifteenth street border, between Market and Chestnut, a pool to the east of it, a large fountain between the memorial and Municipal Courts Building, a pool west of Civil Courts Building and another pool between the memorial and Central Library.

Mayor Dickmann recently suggested provision for constructing the memorial might be included in a new bond issue proposal next spring. However, the condemnation proceedings for the plaza site involved a charge of $1,690,615 in benefit taxes against surrounding property. The benefits were knocked out in Circuit Court nearly three years ago, but the city has appealed to the Supreme Court of Missouri. Should the benefits be collected eventually, the city would have funds for the memorial and other plaza embellishment.

It is possible the Plaza Commission may be asked by city officials to present a less elaborate plan for the grounds.

OFFICIAL FIGURES ON VOTE IN TUESDAY'S BOND ELECTION

Total 111,918, or 33.3 Per Cent of City's Total Registration of 338,837.

The official vote in Tuesday's special bond election was 111,918, the Election Board determined yesterday. This was 93 higher than was shown in the unofficial tabulation for the press. It was 33.8 per cent of the registration of 338,837.

On repeal of the $1,600,000 bond item voted in 1923 for a northeast-ern rail approach of Municipal Bridge the vote was 102,537 for and 9,381 against. On issuance of $1,500,000 in bonds for building and equipping hospitals the vote was 102,264 for and 9,654 against. The former carried by 27,925 and the latter by 27,755. Each required a two-thirds majority for adoption.

In the election of 1923, approving $87,372,500 in bonds, the vote was 90,597, or 24.9 per cent of the registration then.

U. M. W. SLATE BEATEN AT 8 'CAPTIVE' MINES

Rivals Celebrate First Victories With Fireworks, Gunfire and Bombs.

By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 24.—Wild scenes of celebration, marked by fireworks and gunfire, broke out early today in the soft coal fields as opponents of the United Mine Workers hailed the union's first setback in collective bargaining battling at "captive" mines.

A union slate of representatives yesterday went down to defeat in eight of the 14 Fayette County mines of the H. C. Frick Coal Co., U. S. Steel subsidiary, but the U. M. W. A. still holds a wide margin through its triumphs in 14 other noncommercial collieries Wednesday.

Yesterday's victories were credited to the Miners' Independent Brotherhood, described by U. M. W. A. leaders as a "company union." The brotherhood also won at a fifteenth mine, making the two-day score 20 for the union and nine for its opponents.

The elections were orderly, but as the unofficial results became known, groups of miners in the vicinity of Uniontown set off fireworks and dynamite bombs in a celebration lasting well into the morning.

FRANCOIS ALBERT, MINISTER IN DALADIER CABINET, DIES

Succumbs Suddenly in Paris; Was Newspaper Man, Professor, Lawyer and Author.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Nov. 24.—Francis Albert, Minister of Labor in the Edouard Daladier Cabinet, died suddenly last night at his home from pleuritis. He was 56 years old.

Before entering politics, he had been a newspaper man, a professor, a lawyer and an author. He was one of the editors of Georges Clemenceau's paper in the World War.

M. Albert claimed for himself the honor of having brought Clemenceau and Raymond Poincare, then President of the Republic, together after many a feud. Whoever did that, at any rate, cleared the way for victory for the Allies in the war. His claim was disputed by Raymond Colrat, former Minister of Justice under Poincare in 1922, who as editor of the Opinion said he induced the President to give the war-time Premiership to Clemenceau.

M. Albert entered the Senate in 1920, but finding the Upper House not tempestuous enough he ran for the Chamber in 1928. In 1924 Edouard Herriot made him Minister of Education, a post in which he ran afoul of university heads, and incurred the ire of the Royalist students of Paris for trying to force an unpopular law lecturer, George Scelle, member of his own radical party, into a professorship.

BANKRUPT GROCER ASKED TO TELL WHERE MONEY WENT

He Received Substantial Payments From Provident Association Before Closing Store.

Morris Newman, proprietor of Newman's Market at 2714 Franklin avenue, was asked in Bankruptcy Court yesterday about his disposition of substantial amounts of money received from the Provident Association for meats shortly before he closed his store last Aug. 26.

Under questioning by Trustee Arthur T. Nash, Newman said he had cashed a Provident Association check for about $1200 in July through his brother-in-law. He paid $700 of the proceeds to relatives who had lent him money, he said, but took no receipts. The remaining $500 was used for the purchase of groceries, he said.

When the trustee informed the Referee in Bankruptcy that he had been unable to get Newman's business records, the grocer said they had been lost last February when he moved his store from 4420 Easton street to 2714 Franklin. Three creditors brought the bankruptcy suit in September after Newman had made an assignment of his property. His bankruptcy schedules listed assets valued at $1485, against debts of $5453.

FILES 600 SUITS TO COLLECT $100,000 IN FRANCHISE TAXES

Attorney-General Bases Most of Claims on Payments Due in August, 1932.

Attorney-General McKittick has filed about 600 suits in St. Louis and St. Louis County in behalf of the State of Missouri against local corporations for failure to pay yearly franchise taxes.

Most of the claims are on taxes which were due in August of last year and the same month this year, the franchise tax being based on the par value of capital stock. The State alleges that the tax bills were rendered against the defendant corporations, which failed to make payment when due. In addition to the amount of the tax, judgment is sought for penalty of 25 per cent for failure to pay on time, as well as an additional 1 per cent a month dating from the time payment should have been made.

Attorney Joseph A. Lennon, who represents the Attorney-General in the suits, said several of the cases would be dismissed, as settlement had been made. Most of them were filed in this city and it was estimated that a total of $100,000 unpaid franchise taxes is represented in the litigation.

NOT GOING OVER ANY ABYSS, SAYS JOHNSON

General Attacks Critics of NRA and Roosevelt Monetary Program.

By the Associated Press.
WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 24.—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson struck out today against the critics of the administration monetary program, and stated that the "country may be sure that Franklin D. Roosevelt is not going plunging over any abyss."

Johnson came to the "Little White House" to report on the recovery campaign. Before seeing the President he handed newspapermen a sheet of his speech at Atlanta last night which he had overlooked in delivery.

The words lashed out at O. M. W. Sprague, the resigned Treasury adviser, and said "any man who falsely impugns the credit of the United States is impugning the welfare of our whole people." Newspaper men informed Gen. Johnson about Al Smith's attack today on the monetary program.

"There is my answer to that, too," Johnson replied handing out the statement previously prepared in opposition to Sprague.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 24.—Business is on the verge of "another forward surge," NRA Administrator Hugh S. Johnson said in an address last night. He voiced the conviction that the Roosevelt policies had lifted the nation "35 per cent out of the depths of this depression" and that compared with conditions early last spring "we are a fortunate people."

"You hear nowadays a growling because prosperity has not come overnight. I wonder if any of the grouches has ever thought where we would be if the President had not taken the big plunge," he said.

"Where would the South be if cotton had remained at 6 cents, for example? What would have been the prospect if we were going into this winter with 13,000,000 unemployed?" Johnson called opponents of the recovery program "a few little men with loud voices frantically waving puny red flags of false and futile warning in the path of a resolute advance of a great people."

"Away, slight men!" he shouted. "You may have been leaders once. You are corporals of disaster now." Answers Criticism on Spending.

Johnson declared that criticism of President Roosevelt because he was "spending too much" was the "silliest, glibest criticism that has yet appeared."

"If we can spend $42,000,000,000 for the privilege of competing in a remote European shindig that affected our people not one tithe as much as this lethal blight has affected them," he said, "then we surely can spend more billions to fight back this curse of humanity if it scrapes the bottom of the box."

"The NRA got no violent shock," Johnson said, speaking before 3500 persons in the City Auditorium, "when the Southern Industrialists told us that they feel they are entitled to a 30 per cent wage differential because of the lesser efficiency of the labor they employ."

"It is the first time I ever knew of a community boasting that any section of its people are inferior to a corresponding group in any other part of the country."

"Just in order that they may have a clear picture of the contrary view—the Northern factories insist that they are not to blame for the poor quality of their labor and do not

TELLS OF STRONG-ARM SQUAD HIRED BY HUEY LONG FORCES

New Orleans Mayor Says 75 Men Were at Overton Headquarters on Election Day.

By the Associated Press.
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 24.—Mayor Walmsley, supporter of United States Senator Overton, told the Senate committee investigating Overton's election yesterday that a group of 75 men was kept at Overton's headquarters on election day to be sent out to the polls if necessary to see that "their side got a square deal."

The men were not needed that day, he said, and early in the evening they were paid off. This is a common practice in New Orleans, where, he said, the Choctaw Club, which he described as a political and philanthropic organization of which he is the active head, had lost only one or two elections since its organization in Civil War days.

Overton is a member of the Senator Huey P. Long faction. "Strong armed fellows," asked Chairman Tom Connally. "Yes, if necessary," replied Walmsley. "Who paid them? Is there a minimum wage for them?" "No, they are not in the code," said Walmsley. "I do not recall who paid them."

Mrs. Ruffin G. Pleasant, wife of a former governor, took the stand to urge that the committee sit in the country parishes because "there were many persons not cowards, who hesitated to come to the city because of that would-be hero, Huey P. Long." Her remarks drew boos and cheers from the gallery, and she said: "I have been seized by thugs in the State House, but never until the present regime have I heard a woman booed in the State of Louisiana. I am perfectly willing to be booed when I know I am telling the truth, and you know it."

$7,204,413 TAX ABATEMENT FOR PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Guy T. Helvering, Internal Revenue Commissioner, announced last night a tax abatement of $7,204,413 to the Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation, now the Paramount Publix Corporation and Subsidiaries, the amount representing over assessment of income tax in 1929.

The abatement represented amounts found to have been duplicated as a result of mergers of various companies and corporations with the parent company.

See why they should be penalized by having to pay higher wages than you do.

Square Deal for Both.
"I have no doubt that the two positions, irreconcilable as they appear, are taken with equal sincerity. It is a part of our job in arranging the codes to see that the North gets no bulge on the South, and that the South gets no hammer-lock on the North."

"In other words, we have got to find a practical process that is just to both. However, it may be worked out, you may be certain that the North will not win its contention for a universal wage scale and the South will not get its 30 per cent differential."

Somewhere between these two extremes lies the formula that will mean the greatest good attainable for the whole country, and that is what we are after."

Johnson said to reporters that Henry Ford's motor industry had complied with the Recovery Act and no longer was "any concern of mine." Johnson said Ford had come within all provisions of the act.

HOUSE GROUP AGREES ON COUNTY SEWER BILL

Measure No. 88 Backed by Civic Groups Reported; Several Amendments.

The Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 24.—The controversy over conflicting bills for control of construction and financing of sewers in St. Louis County apparently was settled late yesterday by the House Judiciary Committee, which voted in an executive session to report favorably House Bill No. 88, backed by several civic organizations in the county and to kill the so-called County Court Sewer Bill, which has been attacked as political patronage measure.

The committee report was presented to the House today by Representative Burton of Howard County, chairman of the committee. Representative Ryan of St. Louis County, who introduced the county court bill, which the committee killed, objected to the bill being taken up out of order and Estes withdrew his motion.

Ryan said his objection was on the ground he had not been heard of the plan to take the bill out of order, and, as a member of the St. Louis County delegation, thought he should have been heard of it.

Committee members said the vote accompanied passage of House Bill No. 88, and to kill the County Court Sewer Bill—House Bill 95—was unanimous.

House Bill No. 88 is designated to give as much voice as possible to affected taxpayers, in the construction of sewers. It provides for incorporation of sewer districts by the court if, after a hearing, and investigation by engineers, the proposed sewers are deemed necessary. Affairs of such a district could be administered by a board of three trustees, elected for six years terms by voters within the district. Bonds to finance sewer construction could be issued only after approval of two-thirds of the persons voting in a special election.

The bill proposes limitations on expenditures and the salaries of sewer district employees. The Judiciary Committee recommended several amendments to the bill, the principal one providing that if sewer bond issue proposal failed adoption, in a special election, the proposal could not be again submitted to voters within the proposed sewer district for two years.

House Bill No. 88 is backed by St. Louis County Chamber of Commerce, the St. Louis County League of Municipalities, the St. Louis County NRA Committee, the Taxpayers' Protective Association, and was endorsed by Representative Daily, Estes and Ryan of St. Louis County.

House Bill No. 95, the County Court bill, subsequently was introduced by Representative Ryan of St. Louis County. Some of the Judiciary Committee members who voted to kill this bill said it resembled too closely the Ralph sewer law of St. Louis County, which was repealed by the 1931 Legislature. This bill would give the County Court the power to initiate and supervise all sewer construction projects in the county and the power to create sewer districts. The court would be authorized to appoint such sewer district employees and to fix their salaries. Incurring of indebtedness for construction of sewers would be authorized, by majority vote, in a Measure No. 88 Backed by Civic Groups Reported; Several Amendments.

The Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 24.—A controversy over conflicting jurisdiction of construction and control of sewers in St. Louis County apparently was settled late yesterday by the House Judiciary Committee, which voted in an executive session to report favorably on House Bill No. 88, backed by several civic organizations in the county and to kill the so-called County Sewer Bill, which has been backed as political patronage measure.

The committee report was presented to the House today by Representative Burton of Howard County, chairman of the committee. Representative Estes of St. Louis County attempted to bring House Bill No. 88 up immediately, out of regular order, for perfection. Representative Ryan of St. Louis County, who introduced the county sewer bill, which the committee voted to kill, objected to the bill being taken up out of order and Estes withdrew his motion.

Ryan said his objection was on the ground he had not been given a chance to be heard. He said he was out of order, and, as a member of the St. Louis County delegation, thought he should have been heard.

FARMERS CAN'T TRADE CROPS

AND AVOID PROCESSING TAX

Liable to Fine and Imprisonment If They Don't Use Commodities Themselves.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The Agricultural Adjustment Administration yesterday told farmers and stock raisers that wheat, corn, hogs and other commodities under processing taxes may be processed only for farm families without paying the levy.

The administration said there had been reports that farmers were having these products processed and that they were selling or exchanging them for groceries or other merchandise in violation of the act. It pointed out that violators would be subject to a $10,000 fine or imprisonment of five years or both. "Persons who, to evade paying a processing tax, sign affidavits to the effect that they are producers of wheat, corn or other taxed commodities, when such is not the case, also are liable to prosecution," the administration said. "This means that any person who processes taxed commodities, not of his own raising, for home consumption, is required to pay the tax."

"Storekeepers who accept from a producer, flour, pork or other commodities upon which a processing tax is due but has not been paid, are subject to prosecution for conspiring with the producer to evade the tax."

FUNERAL OF JOHN C. STILES

Head of Kansas Mortgage Investment Firm Gave One to Five Years. By the Associated Press. PARSONS, Kan., Nov. 24.—J. Luther Taylor, former president of the defunct Pittsburg (Kan.) Mortgage Investment Co., was convicted by a District Court jury yesterday on a charge of embezzling funds entrusted to the company and was sentenced to one to five years in prison. This was Taylor's second conviction on the charge. A previous verdict in the Crawford County Court at Pittsburg was reversed by the Supreme Court. The case was brought here on a change of venue. Taylor's attorneys announced a motion for a new trial would be filed.

SPOKESMEN CHOSEN TO OFFER HOUSING IDEA

E. S. Klein and Harland Bartholomew to Request Government Meet Entire Cost.

Two representatives of the City of St. Louis will go to Washington within a few days, to ask the Federal Government to assume the entire cost of a large-scale housing and slum clearance plan here. This was decided by the general committee, named two days before, and meeting today in the Mayor's office. Eugene S. Klein, architect, chairman of the committee, and Harland Bartholomew, engineer of the City Plan Commission, were selected to go to Washington. When the question of paying their expenses came up, City Counselor Hay said the city had no authority to spend funds for the purpose, and Comptroller Nolte said he would oppose any appropriation for the purpose. The Chamber of Commerce, through Walter B. Weisenburger, president, offered to look after Klein's expenses. After considerable discussion of the matter of Bartholomew's expenses, Bartholomew said he would pay them himself, and that he had paid his own expenses on previous trips on city business in the last two years. Later it was decided, with Hay's assent, that a special fund of the City Plan Commission be used for the purpose.

Cities Increase in Values. "But I think," Bartholomew said, "that Mr. Nolte should consider the increase in taxable values that will come in the district east of Jefferson avenue, when housing improvements are made there. Taxable values in that district have shrunk $100,000."

Nolte said he understood that the Government's purpose in building housing projects in cities was that the cities should take them over later. He did not think St. Louis would wish to take over realty voluntarily, as it will probably have to take some realty involuntarily, through tax delinquency.

Luther Ely Smith said he believed St. Louis already had one of the three votes on the Federal Emergency Housing Corporation, to which its application for a "100 per cent" grant will be made. He referred to Secretary of Labor Perkins, with whom he talked when she was in St. Louis last Saturday. Smith said Klein was well qualified to present the plan, as he was the builder of York Village, N. J., a wartime housing project in the Philadelphia area.

Four Conditions By Exchange. W. W. Butts, representing the Real Estate Exchange, said the directors of the exchange had voted to approve the project on four conditions. These were (1) that a 100 per cent grant of Federal funds be obtained; (2) that the plan be confined to slum areas; (3) that the density of population in the district should not be increased; and (4) that the taxes be the same for the area that they have in the past.

Klein said the real estate men's conditions were in line with the committee's ideas. He said presentation of the plan would be facilitated by E. J. Russell, Jr., St. Louis, national chairman of the Institute of Architects, who is now in Washington and in touch with Government officials.

It was decided that selection of the location to be recommended for the project, and other details, be left to the City Plan Commission, which has surveyed and studied various areas. Besides the election of Klein as permanent chairman of the committee, Mrs. E. H. Steedman was named as vice-chairman, and Mayor Dickmann as honorary chairman. The committee is composed of heads of architectural, engineering, business, labor, civic and social service bodies.

LINDBERGH FLY TO CANARY ISLANDS FROM THE AZORES

Arrive at Las Palmas After Trip Made by Way of Funchal, in Madeira Group.

By the Associated Press. LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, Nov. 24.—Col and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here at 3:15 p. m. today after a flight from Ponta Delgada, in the Azores Islands. The distance was more than 800 miles. The Lindberghs left Ponta Delgada in the Azores shortly after sunrise and flew to Funchal, in the Madeira Islands, about 600 miles away. After circling over Funchal three times, they headed out of sight of land again, across the Atlantic, almost directly south to the Canary Islands, more than 200 miles farther.

They are now only 1000 miles away from Cape Verde, Africa, from which point they may decide to travel westward across the Atlantic, since Cape Verde is the westernmost point on the African continent.

SATCHEL OF CANCELED CHECKS TAKEN BY MAN IN HOLDUP

Edward B. Walters, Bank Messenger, Is Stopped at Broadway and St. Charles St.

A satchel of canceled checks was taken from Edward B. Walters, messenger for the United Bank & Trust Co., in a holdup at Broadway and St. Charles street at 9 a. m. today.

Walter, who is 18 years old, was on his way from the bank, at Fourth street and Washington avenue, to the St. Louis Clearing House Association, 506 Olive street. An armed man stopped him, ordered him to "stick 'em up" and grabbed the satchel, escaping on foot.

Officers of the bank said the satchel contained no cash and that the checks were worthless except for the bank's convenience in settling accounts. Walters resides at 2516 North Market street.

NEW IDEA IN MAKING
NATURAL CAGES AT ZOO

Director Vierheller Turns Out Cement Work That Looks Like Granite.

A new technique for construction of animal display pits has been developed at the St. Louis Zoological Garden and will be adopted in the Antelope House, now under construction, George P. Vierheller, director of the Zoo, announced today.

The technique, details of which Vierheller is not ready to reveal, concerns the use of cement grout and of cement containing small chips of granite instead of the gravel ordinarily used. The result is artificial rock that cannot be distinguished from genuine.

Vierheller said that he, Edwin A. Lemp, member of the Zoological Board of Control; John Wallace, Zoo architect, and William I. Seifert, employed as a sculptor at the Zoo, had developed the reproduction of granite formations.

"We have been working on it for two years," he said, "and have made many trips to the Arcadia valley to study the rock there; to get the feel of the granite-bound landscape. And this, I believe, looks like we have captured it."

Nature Closely Imitated.
He turned to what appeared to be a giant seamed boulder, he pointed at two or three more in the distance. The frosty red on top, shading to brownish and black-streaked red on the sides, had the immovable air of solid granite. Some of the boulders even had pale green circles of lichen upon them; others, a different, darker lichen growth. These, Vierheller explained, are painted on by hand after the rock-work has been completed.

The Antelope House will be the first section of a 12-acre steppe where animals will wander apparently at will. It will have four large exhibition areas on one side, with the imitation granite walls broken by moats and a dozen smaller runways on the other side. One of the large areas will be for giraffes, the others for the larger species of antelope. In the runways, where the simulation of nature will not be carried to as great a degree, will be lesser antelopes.

Here the animals will be seen in the summer. In the winter they will be inside the house, where the cages will be conventionally barred and where spectators can view the exhibits from a central walk.

Antelope Section Ready July 1.
The antelope section will be ready about July 1, Vierheller believes. Construction of the house itself, now almost complete, cost $57,000. Grading, construction of moats and fabrication of the artificial rock, from carefully prepared plaster models, will be done by the Zoo instead of by contract as the building was erected. This work, which will start early next Spring, will cost about $50,000, of which, Vierheller said, $40,000 will be expended for labor.

The Antelope House is being erected east and slightly south of the Bird Cage. A Camel House will be built south and east of the Antelope House; a new Elephant House will be between the Bird Cage and the Antelope House and a new Lion House and pits will occupy the site of the present Lion House.

This construction, Vierheller said, will extend over a period of 10 years. He expects that the Camel House will cost $60,000, the Elephant House $170,000, the Lion House, $150,000.

"We can't build everything at once," he concluded. "Most of our income goes for maintenance and purchase of animals. We are able to save some each year and about every third year, we replace one of our old buildings. The eyesore of the present Antelope paddocks, just east of the Lion House, will be gone by the end of next summer."

TROOPS TO BE WITHDRAWN FROM ILLINOIS MINE AREA

Action Decided on by Gov. Hornor After Period of Quiet.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 24.—Plans were announced today for the withdrawal of National Guardsmen from the mine trouble centers in Saline and Christian counties.

Adjutant-General Carlos E. Black said troops guarding Peabody Coal Co. mines near Harrisburg, in Saline County, would be withdrawn Sunday. Similar action is to be taken at Taylorville, Christian County, in the near future.

Whether the Peabody company would be permitted to reopen mines 43 and 47 in Saline County was not announced at the Statehouse.

Gov. Hornor ordered the demobilization, feeling that there is no need to keep the troops in the mine fields any longer because the situation has been quiet, with no violence reported for more than a month. The State has been spending $3000 a day to maintain peace and order in the two counties, scene of the major riots in the mine war between members of the rival coal unions. Demobilization at Taylorville will be accomplished within a few days. Troops have stood guard there 15 months.

Shooting Jury Falls to Agree.
By the Associated Press.
HUNTSVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 24.—A jury failed to agree yesterday in the trial of Allen Strunk, 18 years old, and his sister, Adell, 20, charged with firing a shotgun into a passing locomotive and wounding John Lynch, railroad engineer of Danville, Ky. The shooting occurred near the Tennessee-Kentucky line the night of Oct. 7.

THOMAS S. HAMMOND QUILTS
TRADE DIVISION OF NRA

Illinoisian Said to Have Been Out of Sympathy With Direction Taken by Program.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The NRA today completed its headquarters reorganization for code enforcement purposes, merging the Blue Eagle division with the new and stronger compliance division and establishing closer relations with Government departments and agencies interested in NRA work.

The resignation of Thomas S. Hammond of Chicago, former executive of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, and recently made head of NRA's trade association division, was announced. He is to leave early next week.

Close acquaintances said Hammond was out of sympathy with the direction taken by the NRA program, but the retiring official told reporters this had nothing to do with his departure.

William H. Davis, for the past 60 days a deputy administrator in charge of shipping and related industries, was designated national compliance director. To help him, three assistant national compliance directors were named: Lieut. K. Johnston, son of Gen. Hugh S. Johnston, as chief of the administrative branch; A. J. Altmeyer, chief of the labor branch, and Frank Healy, formerly chief of the Blue Eagle division, which had charge of compliance work for the temporary re-employment agreement of the President. (The NRA chief's son spells his name with a "t" but the father spells it Johnson.)

ENTIRE MILK PROBLEM LIKELY TO BE REOPENED

Farm Administrators Indicate They Are Losing Faith in Price-Fixing as a Solution.

NEW HEARING ON CHICAGO AGREEMENT

Meanwhile, Secretary Wallace Cancels Licenses of Three Dealers Accused of Underselling.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Evidence appears that Farm Administrators are losing faith in price-fixing as the panacea for the complex problems of milk producers, distributors and consumers, and they have determined to rebuild their fluid milk regulatory policies from the ground up.

They reopened for hearing yesterday the first and most important marketing agreement they have approved so far—that covering the large Chicago milk shed—after finding its fixed price schedules had been widely disregarded in what Secretary of Agriculture Wallace described as "quite a bit of chiseling."

Wallace has revoked the licenses of three Chicago dealers who were alleged to have sold milk at prices less than those fixed in the agreement. This action was taken with the evident purpose of enforcing the agreement pending such a time as it might be amended.

The three concerns were the Edgewater and Lakeview Dairy companies of Chicago and the Josef Wagner Dairy of Cicero. The revocation means that unless they obtain reinstatement they are subject to a $1000 fine for each day's operation without license.

Points to Be Taken Up. At the hearing, set for next Monday, all provisions of the agreement will be up for reconsideration. In addition, it was disclosed that the hearing will open the way for a study of the capitalization of milk distributing companies, returns on their investments, and the effect of prices on consumption.

The Chicago agreement freeing its signers from provisions of the anti-trust laws, was the first sanctioned by Wallace. It has been serving as the guide for promulgation of many other agreements, but administrators yesterday expressed dissatisfaction with it. They have abandoned earlier plans of drafting a blanket milk marketing agreement and George N. Peek, Farm Administrator, has said that hereafter each milk shed will be considered "on its own merits."

When the Chicago agreement went into effect in August it provided that the price to consumers on milk most generally sold should be 10 cents a quart whether in stores or delivered. Since then this price has been increased to 11 cents, but numerous dealers still are offering milk at 8 cents and paying producers the minimum provided by the agreement.

Authority to Cut Spread. Administrators are convinced that the spread between the price realized by producers and that charged consumers may be reduced, but they say they face opposition from numerous distributing agencies if this is done.

The Farm Administration has authority to require a reduction in the spread, and it recently has made a preliminary investigation of the possibilities of taking this action. One of the questions to be argued is whether governmental power should be used to compel some

Meanwhile, Secretary Wallace Cancels Licenses of Three Dealers Accused of Underselling.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Evidence appears that Farm Administrators are losing faith in price-fixing as the panacea for the complex problems of milk producers, distributors and consumers, and they have determined to rebuild their fluid milk regulatory policies from the ground up.

They reopened for hearing yesterday the first and most important marketing agreement they have approved so far—that covering the large Chicago milk shed—after finding its fixed price schedules had been widely disregarded in what Secretary of Agriculture Wallace described as "quite a bit of chiseling."

Wallace has revoked the licenses of three Chicago dealers who were alleged to have sold milk at prices less than those fixed in the agreement. This action was taken with the evident purpose of enforcing the agreement pending such a time as it might be amended.

The three concerns were the Edgewater and Lakeview Dairy companies of Chicago and the Josef Wagner Dairy of Cicero. The revocation means that unless they obtain reinstatement they are subject to a $1000 fine for each day's operation without a license.

Points to Be Taken Up. At the hearing, set for next Monday, all provisions of the agreement will be up for reconsideration. In addition, it was disclosed that the hearing will open the way for a study of the capitalization of milk distributing companies, returns on their investments, and the effect of prices on consumption.

The Chicago agreement freeing its signers from provisions of the antitrust laws, was the first sanctioned by Wallace. It has been serving as the guide for promulgation of many other agreements, but administrators yesterday expressed dissatisfaction with it. They have abandoned earlier plans of drafting a blanket milk marketing agreement and George N. Peek, Farm Administrator, has said that hereafter each milk shed will be considered "on its own merits."

When the Chicago agreement went into effect in August it provided that the price to consumers on milk most generally sold should be 10 cents a quart whether in bottles or delivered. Since then this price has been increased to 11 cents, but numerous dealers still are offering milk at 8 cents and paying producers the minimum provided by the agreement.

Authority to Cut Spread. Administrators are convinced that the spread between the price realized by producers and that charged consumers may be reduced, but they may face opposition from numerous distributing agencies if this is done.

The Farm Administration has authority to require a reduction in the spread, and it recently has made a preliminary investigation of the possibilities of taking this action. One of the questions to be argued is whether governmental power should be used to compel some dealers to charge consumers a higher price than they are willing to charge although they maintain the established farm price.

Jerome N. Frank, general counsel, also will seek to determine whether the price advances to consumers have had the effect of decreasing consumption and increasing production, thus tending to complicate the problem provided by the already burdensome surplus of fluid milk, butter and other products.

Bank to Pay Depositors in Full. Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEBO, Ill., Nov. 24.—Preparations are going forward for an early payment of the balance due the depositors of the closed First National Bank here. Eighty-five per cent of the total deposits have already been paid back, and enough money has been raised not only to pay the remaining 15 per cent, but also interest to depositors. The receiver's statement shows that only 4 per cent of the deposits have been used to pay the expense of liquidation.

REWARD FOR HART'S BODY

Father of Abducted Californian Posts Offer of $500. SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 24.—A reward of $500 for the recovery of the body of Brooke L. Hart was offered today by the father of the victim of kidnapers.

T. H. Thurmond and J. M. Holmes have confessed abducting Hart and throwing him bound into San Francisco bay. Sheriff Emig filed complaints charging them with kidnapping under the State law, in which the penalty is death or life imprisonment. The prisoners also face Federal grand jury indictments on charges of using the mails in an attempt to extort.

RITCHEY URGES "Taverns" With Bars

By the Associated Press. ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 24.—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie recommended to the Maryland Legislature yesterday that it legalize "taverns"—places where a man might buy his whisky across a bar, stand up and drink it. "I see no practical difference between taking a drink sitting down and taking one standing up," said the Governor. "And no particular efficacy in requiring one to eat a meal because he wants a drink."

KUMQUATS NOW ADDED TO WINTER FRUITS

Give Tangy Zest to Cocktails and Mixed Fruit Salads.

Kumquats, orange-colored and oval-shaped, are seen in the market. They are slightly pungent in taste and make a fine garnish, sliced thin, for cocktails and salads.

There's plenty of fruit for the Thanksgiving feast with grapefruit, honeydew melons, pears and several varieties of grapes very reasonable in price. Casaba melons are also quite plentiful.

Pineapples continue to come from both Cuba and Honduras. Shipments of dates are increasing. There is considerable rhubarb in the markets just now and prices are rather low.

Vegetables plentiful.

Never has Thanksgiving found a cheaper or more plentiful supply of vegetables than this year.

Beets, beans, celery, cabbage, carrots, spinach and broccoli are all here in abundance and at low prices.

Tomatoes and cucumbers are a little higher than they have been, as both are shipped now from other points.

California green peas and asparagus cost more than the ordinary vegetables but still may be indulged in occasionally.

Mushrooms look another downward price dive this week, as did also artichokes.

A shipment of new Louisiana gumbo was one of the week's arrivals.

PECAN CRISP

Chop coarsely three cups pecans and spread on the bottom of a large shallow, well-buttered pan. Mix two cups brown sugar with one-fourth cup white corn syrup, two tablespoons butter, a few grains salt and one-half cup water. Stir over a slow fire until sugar is dissolved, then boil with very occasional stirring until mixture cracks when a little of it is dropped in cold water, or until it reaches 300 degrees on the candy thermometer.

Remove at once from the fire and pour in a thin stream all over the nuts. Let stand until cold and then break in irregular shaped pieces.

JELLIED APRICOTS

One-half pound dried apricots. Cold water. Two tablespoons gelatin. One cup sugar. One-eighth teaspoon salt. Wash apricots and soak overnight in three cups of cold water. In the morning simmer apricots for 10 to 15 minutes in water in which they were soaked, drain, and to hot juice add gelatin, which has been softened in one-half cup of cold water, sugar and salt, stir until dissolved and set aside to chill. Cut apricots into small pieces. When gelatin mixture has nearly set, stir in apricots, turn into a mold and chill for three or four hours, or until thoroughly set. Turn onto a plate and serve with whipped cream and a few chopped nuts sprinkled over the top. If preferred the mixture may be molded in cups for individual servings.

OYSTERS FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS' BUFFETS

Cocktail Sauce and Appropriate Salad Recipes Given.

The return of many college students will lead to much informal entertaining next week and for buffet suppers or midnight snacks, oysters are always good. Skewered oysters, pigs in blankets, creamed on toast, baked in Mexican style, or cocktails to begin a more elaborate spread, are our suggestions.

We give in addition to oyster recipes, cocktail sauce and a cabbage combination salad delicious with oysters.

Baked Oysters:
One-half cupful ketchup.
One teaspoonful Worcestershire sauce.
One-half teaspoonful salt.
Dash of pepper.
One quart large oysters.
One-half cupful grated American cheese.

One tablespoonful butter.
To the ketchup add Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Place the oysters in a buttered casserole or baking dish, cover with the ketchup mixture, sprinkle with cheese, and dot over with butter. Bake in moderate oven until cheese is melted and oysters curled and serve very hot with generous slices of pickle.

Creamed Oysters.
One pint solid oysters.
Three tablespoons butter.
Three tablespoons flour.
One cup milk.
One-half cup cream.
One teaspoon lemon juice.
Two-thirds teaspoon salt.
One-sixth teaspoon paprika.

Pick over oysters, scald in their own liquor and drain. Cream butter and flour, gradually add milk and oyster liquor, stirring constantly. Simmer three minutes, add cream, then oysters, lemon juice, salt and paprika.

Skewered Oysters.
Drain the liquor from the oysters. Place an oyster on a skewer (of wood or silver) then a piece of bacon, then another oyster, and so on until the skewer is filled. Broil them before a clear flame until the edges of the oysters begin to ruffle.

Place on a hot dish and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Garnish with olives and serve with ketchup.

Pigs in Blankets.
Season the oysters with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Wrap each oyster in a strip of bacon and fasten with a toothpick. Broil just long enough to crisp the bacon (about five minutes). Cut slices of buttered toast into quarters and place one pig in its blanket on each small slice of toast. Serve immediately garnished with parsley.

Cocktail Sauce.
Three-fourth cup tomato catsup or chili sauce.
Two tablespoons Worcestershire sauce.
One-half cup lemon juice.
One-sixth teaspoon tabasco.

One teaspoon celery salt.
Place all ingredients together in wide-mouthed jar, shake until well blended and chill before using. Serves 10.

For variety in flavor, add grated horseradish, minced pimiento, green pepper, celery or chopped pickle to taste.

Cabbage Combination Salad.
Four cups chopped cabbage, one-third cup chopped green peppers, one cup chopped pimientos, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one-half cup chopped celery, two-third cup salad dressing. Chill ingredients. Combine and serve in bowl lined with cabbage leaves.

SAUCE FOR LEFT-OVER MEAT

Slice the cold meat and place it in a frying pan with a small amount of butter; brown very slightly, then pour over it a sauce made by combining one-fourth cup tomato ketchup, one-half cup water, one tablespoon vinegar, two teaspoons flour, two teaspoons brown sugar, one teaspoon prepared mustard.

Simmer meat slowly with this sauce, or place it in a moderate oven for about one-half hour. The meat will be moist and flavorful. Serve with baked potatoes and a green salad to have a good quick dinner.

QUICK AND EASY RAREBIT

Two tablespoonfuls butter.
Three tablespoonfuls flour.
One medium can cream of tomato soup (heated).
One-half package American cheese, grated.
Melt butter in a saucepan and blend with flour. Add tomato soup and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add cheese and stir over a slow fire until cheese is melted. Serve on buttered toast or on crisp crackers. Garnish with Spanish olives.

Tender Potato Skins.
After scrubbing the potatoes rub them with a little butter and the skins will be tender. Bake in a hot oven.

Pickle and Cheese Canapes.
Mash Roquefort cheese with a fork and combine with an equal amount of sweet pickle relish. Spread on toasted bread cut in fancy shapes. Sprinkle with paprika.

We have many imitations—insist on

Orange Creams: Roll fondant into balls. Top each with a strip of candied orange peel.

Orange Nut Creams: Top fondant balls each with a walnut half.

TURKEY STUFFINGS OFFER WIDE CHOICE

Oysters, Chestnuts, Macaroni or Mushrooms Enrich Bread Crumb Fillings.

Turkey may be served as a matter of course every Thanksgiving dinner, but the stuffing may be varied.

It all depends on the dinner budget whether the dressing be a plain bread crumb one, or whether mushrooms, chestnuts or oysters are to be added to enrich the traditional bird.

Bread Stuffing.
Eight cups soft bread crumbs. One-half cup onion, finely chopped.

One-third cup celery, diced. One teaspoon salt. One-half teaspoon black pepper. One cup turkey stock. One cup mayonnaise.

Combine bread crumbs, onion, celery, salt and pepper. Fold stock into mayonnaise and add to other ingredients. Toss all lightly together with fork until thoroughly mixed. Makes enough stuffing for one medium-sized turkey. Use bread that is a day old.

Oyster Stuffing.
Four cups oysters, drained and cut in small pieces. Four cups soft bread crumbs. One teaspoon salt.

One-half teaspoon black pepper. One-half cup hot oyster liquor. One-half cup mayonnaise. One-fourth cup lemon juice.

Combine oysters, bread crumbs, salt and pepper. Fold oyster liquor into mayonnaise and add lemon juice. Add these to other ingredients. Toss all lightly together with fork until thoroughly mixed. Makes enough stuffing for one medium-sized turkey. Use bread that is a day old.

Worcestershire Sauce Stuffing.
One loaf slightly dry bread (crumbed). One-half cupful melted butter. One teaspoonful cinnamon. One tablespoonful Worcestershire sauce.

One tablespoonful onion juice. Mix thoroughly and press firmly into the turkey. This makes a rich, crumbly stuffing, and is deliciously seasoned.

Macaroni Stuffing.
Cook one package of macaroni in four quarts of water to which one tablespoon of salt has been added. The water is drained off when the macaroni is tender. To the macaroni one beaten egg, one-fourth cup of melted butter, one tablespoon of paprika, two teaspoons of salt, two teaspoons of poultry seasoning, one-half cup of cream and one cup of chopped celery are added. Mince onion may be used, too. This makes approximately one quart of dressing, and while the stuffing is placed loosely in a bird, the recipe will need to be doubled for a very large turkey.

Onion Stuffing.
Parboil one cup of finely chopped onion 10 minutes in boiling water. Add two teaspoons poultry seasoning and cook two minutes more. Combine three cups of bread crumbs (day-old bread), one beaten egg, half a cup melted butter, three-fourths teaspoon salt, dash of pepper. Add onion and mix well.

Giblet Stuffing.
Nine cups toasted bread crumbs. One-half cup water or milk. One-half cup melted fat. Three teaspoons salt. One-half teaspoonful pepper. One-half teaspoon sage. Three medium onions, chopped fine.

Two cups diced celery. Giblets—cooked—ground. Put giblets in small pan with just enough water to cover. Cook until tender, grind through food chopper and combine with the stuffing ingredients.

Four water over bread and let stand a few minutes. Add fat, seasoning, onion, celery and ground up giblets to bread crumbs. Mix thoroughly.

Mushroom Stuffing.
Eight cups bread crumbs. Two tablespoons minced parsley. One teaspoon sage. One teaspoon thyme. Two teaspoons pepper. One cup melted shortening. Three teaspoons salt. Two tablespoons minced onion. Two cups chopped mushrooms. Two cups seedless raisins. Mix ingredients in order given. If mixture seems too dry, moisten with milk or stock.

Chestnut Stuffing.
Five cups of chestnut puree. Two cups soft bread crumbs. One cup shortening (melted). Two tablespoons chopped parsley. Two tablespoons grated onion. One teaspoon salt. One-quarter teaspoon pepper. One scant cup of cream. To make chestnut puree, boil one and three-quarter quarts French chestnuts until tender. Remove shells and skins and rub through a sieve. To the puree add crumbs, butter and seasonings. Moisten with cream.

VEGETABLE CURRY

One-half cup rice. One cup diced onion. One cup diced carrots. One cup chopped cabbage. One cup canned peas. Two tablespoons butter or other fat.

One-half teaspoon salt. One-fourth teaspoon curry. Wash and cook rice in three pints of gently boiling salted water. Drain and put in a colander and pour hot water over rice. Then stand colander over steam until grains swell and separate. Cook vegetables in a small quantity of water and just before removing from stove add canned peas. Add seasonings to vegetable liquor. Make a ring of cooked rice, place vegetables in the center, and pour over them the liquid mixture. Serve very hot.

HOT FUDGE SAUCE
Combine eight squares of unsweetened chocolate with one and three-fourths cups of water and cook four minutes, stirring all the time. Beat with a rotary egg beater until well blended. Add two and one-half cups sugar and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Return to fire and cook four minutes more. This makes almost two cups of sauce, more than necessary for one meal, but as it keeps well, it can be served next week on ice cream or pudding. Good either hot or cold.

Chocolate Cream Pudding
One square (1 ounce) chocolate. One-half cup water. One and one-half cups milk, scalded. Two eggs or four yolks. One-eighth teaspoon salt. One-half cup sugar. Three-fourths teaspoon vanilla. Melt chocolate over hot water. Add water and sugar and bring to boil, stirring constantly until thick. Four warm milk over slightly beaten eggs, stirring constantly. Add to the chocolate mixture in top of double boiler and cook as for soft custard. When done, pour into sherbet dishes. Cool. Top with whipped cream, toasted marshmallows or meringue.

CALUMET BAKING POWDER Lb. Can 23

MR. ROOSTER: "MY LOVE, DON'T YOU SEE THAT CAN OF CALUMET BAKING POWDER ON THE SHELF AND THAT CALUMET RECIPE BOOK? SHE DOESN'T HAVE TO THROW AWAY ANY CAKE NOW!"

MRS. HEN: "DEARIE, WILL YOU TELL ME WHY WE DON'T GET ANY CAKE ANY MORE? SHE USED TO THROW SOME OUT REAL OFTEN!"

You can always depend upon Calumet Baking Powder to give successful results. The remarkable texture will be a revelation to you. The "velvety crumb" of Calumet cakes—the delicate fluffiness of Calumet biscuits and muffins—are the result of perfectly controlled Double-Action. The first action takes place in the mixing bowl—but the second is held in reserve to act in the heat of the oven. It is the two actions, so well-balanced and sure, that make all Calumet baking rise to such beautiful, even lightness. Notice the thrifty small proportion called for in Calumet recipes—usually only one level teaspoon to a cup of sifted flour, much less than with many baking powders. Thanks to Calumet's efficient Double-Action—a little goes a long way!

Ribbon Cake—(3 eggs)

8 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour	1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
8 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder	1/4 teaspoon cloves
3/4 cup butter or other shortening	1/4 teaspoon mace
1 1/2 cups sugar	1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
3 egg yolks, well beaten	1 1/2 tablespoons molasses
1 cup milk	3/4 cup raisins, finely cut
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten	3/4 cup figs, finely cut

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and beat well. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Fold in egg whites. Fill two greased 9-inch layer pans with two-thirds of mixture. To remaining mixture, add spices, molasses, and fruit, and pour into one greased 9-inch layer pan. Bake layers in moderate oven (375° F.) 25 minutes. Arrange spice layer between light layers. Spread red currant jelly between layers and boiled frosting on top and sides of cake. (All measurements are level.)

SORGHUM FAVORITE - OZARK SWEETENING

Used by Hill Folks in Many Recipes Including Gingerbread.

Down in the Ozarks, sorghum is made and used to a great extent, in fact in some families is the only winter sweetening. They make the famous muster gingerbread by a very old sorghum recipe which we give below. This and sorghum Indian pudding are well worth trying by our city friends also.

Old-Time Muster Gingerbread.
To one pint of sorghum add one tablespoon ginger. Place over a fire and boil three minutes, stirring well. Add to this one cup butter and allow to cool. Dissolve two tablespoons soda in four tablespoons water; dissolve one-quarter teaspoon powdered alum in the same amount of hot water in a separate dish. Add soda and alum water to sorghum and stir well. Then add flour enough to make a dough stiff enough to roll out one-half to three-quarters of an inch thick. Bake in a brick oven quickly until a golden brown. Keep in a stone jar in a cool place.

Sorghum Indian Pudding.
One cup corn meal.
Two cups sweet cream.
One cup sorghum.
Two eggs.
Four cups sweet milk.
One teaspoon salt.
One cup finely chopped figs, raisins or apples.
Cook the corn meal with four cups of milk; add sorghum, fruit and salt. When the mixture is cool, add eggs well beaten.

Pour into a buttered pudding dish and bake for two hours. Then pour the cream over the pudding and make for one hour longer. Do not stir after pouring cream over the pudding.

Lemon Butter for Vegetables.
Two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt, few grains paprika, one-half cup lemon juice.
Cream ingredients together. Serve with three cups hot diced vegetables.

Meat Croquettes.
Mix the meat with the sauce and seasoning a few hours before you dip the croquettes into the egg and cracker. They will not separate in the cooking if this is done. Keep in the refrigerator until dipped.

ITALIAN RESTAURANT DINNER DUPLICATES

Native Recipes Given Which Can Be Prepared at Home.

We all like a bit of foreign food now and then, with seasonings vastly different from our ordinary every-day meals. Seldom, however, do most women attempt any foreign cooking, reserving indulgence in such dishes to occasional visits to native restaurants.

The chef of a famous Italian restaurant suggests the following menu, with recipes which the average home cook can easily follow:

Italian Dinner Menu.
Antipasto
Minestrone (Soup)
Spaghetti with Italian sauce
Chicken a la Casatiola
Florentine salad
Coffee

Antipasto.
Six slices of tomato. On each place two fillet of anchovies. Add slices of Italian ham, six slices of salami, six halves of pimientos and garnish with hearts of celery, sweet pickles, radishes and green and black olives.

Minestrone.
Mix a teaspoon of chopped cabbage and teaspoon of chopped celery. Add slice of onion, chopped, butter and slice of Italian ham, minced. Fry for 10 minutes. Add one-half pound of boiled beans and a few green peas, two quarts of beef broth and one-fourth pound of short-cut macaroni. Cook for about 45 minutes. Sprinkle in chopped parsley before serving.

Spaghetti.
Boil one and one-fourth pounds of spaghetti for 20 minutes. Strain it and pour over it Italian sauce which is prepared as follows: Chop one medium onion, one-half clove of garlic, small stalk of celery and add half pound of minced beef and ham. Fry all in Sautoir for about 15 minutes. Then add a medium small can of tomatoes and small can of tomato paste. Cook for one and one-half hours. After pouring this over the spaghetti, sprinkle all with grated parmesan cheese.

Chicken a la Casatiola.
Disjoint small chicken, dry thoroughly and fry in butter until half done. Sprinkle with finely chopped onion, celery and sage leaf and fry for another 10 minutes. Add two ounces of white wine and after two more minutes of frying add three medium sized fresh tomatoes, diced, and mushrooms. Cook for 30 minutes more and sprinkle with finely chopped parsley.

Florentine Salad.
Mix together equal parts of cooked green peas, small diced, cooked white turnip, cooked string beans and asparagus tips. For dressing, use half cup of wine vinegar and olive oil with small amount of chopped onion, a tiny piece of garlic, tarragon and parsley mixed in. Serve garnished with leaf lettuce, sweet sliced dill pickles and small or sliced cooked beets.

GRAHAM ICE BOX CAKE
One-half cup butter, one cup sugar, one egg, three teaspoons cream, one cup crushed pineapple, two and one-fourth cups graham cracker crumbs, one cup chopped walnuts. Cream together the butter and sugar. Add the egg, beaten until light, cream and pineapple. Line an oblong bread pan with heavy waxed paper and place a layer of fine cracker crumbs about one-half inch deep on the bottom. Over this pour three to four tablespoons pineapple juice and one-third of the pineapple mixture. Sprinkle with chopped walnuts. Add the second layer of cracker crumbs, pineapple and nuts and complete with a third layer. Let stand in the refrigerator 24 hours before slicing for serving.

HONEY CUSTARD
Four egg yolks, slightly beaten. One and one-half cups evaporated milk.
One-half cup water.
One-third cup honey.
Pinch of salt.
Combine all ingredients and cook as baked or soft custard.

Cooked Apricot Halves.
Roll in chopped nuts or chopped mint. Or stuff with creamed cheese moistened with orange or lemon juice to the consistency of cream.

Cheese Salads.
Shredded cabbage, chopped green peppers and chopped onions, make a cheap and tasty salad with boiled dressing. In the same class is a salad of cooked string beans, diced cooked carrots with celery salt and mayonnaise.

Boiling Meat Hints.
Meat for soups should be put on the fire in cold water, the better to extract its juices; meat to be boiled should be put on in hot water, as this causes the outer surface of the meat to contract, and by that means retains the flavor.

VIVIANO Deluxe Sea Shells
For a menu novelty, try DE LUXE Sea Shells. They're the same superior quality as other Viviano DE LUXE products, yet the full pound package costs no more.

No flour ever met with the enthusiastic reception that St. Louis has given Omega. Housewives by the thousands have turned to the superfine quality of this pure soft wheat flour. They have found that Omega's "guarantee" means exactly what it says—and that Omega means a real saving in the cost of food for the family.

We brought Omega to St. Louis for better cakes, pastries and hot-breads. But, because of Omega's lower cost, St. Louis responds by using Omega quality not only for "fancy" baking—but for all the baking in the home. St. Louis discovered that with "cake flour" quality at Omega's lower price, every home can afford to bake everything with this highest quality flour. So now we bring you "cake flour" quality in the new, sanitary 10-lb. bag—an even more economical way to buy flour with even greater savings for you. And to introduce the new package, we make an unusually attractive combination offer—a full-size Ivory Stone Mixing Bowl with every 10-lb. bag of Omega as long as the supply of bowls lasts.

Get your 10-lb. bag today and one of these attractive mixing bowls. We know that you will like the new size and will welcome the new economy and savings it brings you. See your grocer. He will supply you.

RUSSIAN COMMUNIST PARTY TO HOLD ELECTION JAN. 25

Joseph Stalin Expected to Be Chosen Secretary Again; Congress First Since 1930.

MOSCOW, Nov. 24.—Joseph Stalin and all his fellow officers of the Communist party, from the all-powerful Political Bureau down, will come up for re-election in the seventeenth all-union congress of the party, which has been summoned to meet in Moscow Jan. 25. The congress will be the first since 1930. By the time it will be held a country-wide party "cleaning" will have ended its exhaustive examination of the worthiness of the highest officials to the lowest workers to be members of the party. Stalin will report to the congress in one of his few speeches which is expected to deal mostly with accomplishments of the five-year plan and the general state of the country. All indications point to the re-election of Stalin as secretary of the party.

EVICTED WOMAN GETS BACK HER 13 CATS

Miss Mary Metzger to Call for Her Six Dogs at Humane Society Today.

When Miss Mary Metzger calls for her six mongrel dogs at the Humane Society today and takes them back to her room at 3646 Olive street, her household will be complete again. She got her 13 cats yesterday.

All 19 animals were forcibly taken away from her Wednesday afternoon when deputy constables evicted her from her previous quarters at 3421 Olive street for non-payment of rent. The deputies put her few household belongings on the sidewalk but couldn't dump the animals there. So they called in the Humane Society, as is customary in evictions, to take them for the night.

Although Miss Metzger was put out of her rooms because she had failed to pay her $7.50 for several months, she had already paid her $5-a-month for her new quarters. She wanted to take the animals there. When the Humane Society took them anyway, she stepped into a taxicab and followed the truck out.

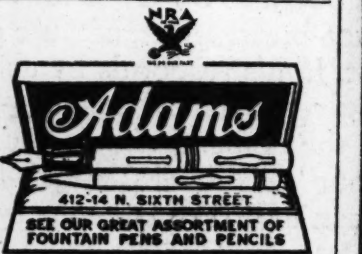

Ex-Member of Humane Society. Miss Metzger formerly was a member of the Humane Society and she was going out "to demand her rights." She had to trail Eric H. Hansen, director, to a friend's home. She told him the deputies had stolen her cats and the Humane Society was receiving stolen property. Hansen assured her she could get her cats and dogs in the morning.

Early yesterday she walked to the Coronado Hotel to call a taxi. The driver saw her, cheap coat thrown over a print dress and wearing old tennis shoes and no hat, and asked her if she could afford the fare. She pulled out a roll of bills. Then she went out to the Humane Society, talked with Hansen for two hours about current economic problems, called another taxi, gathered in her cats, and drove away.

Formerly a Candy Vendor. Miss Metzger is about 70 years old. She was married at one time but she doesn't know her husband's whereabouts and has taken back her maiden name. Two years ago she began selling candy and gum in front of movie theaters. Since there already are 11 candy vendors between Third Baptist Church and Delmar boulevard, this business does not pay!

She has lived in every rooming house in the 3400 block of Olive street and this is the seventh time she has moved into the house at 3646 Olive.

Miss Metzger had only 10 cats until Wednesday. When she was being evicted a neighbor came along and donated three week-old kittens. She took them. But she thinks the 13 brought her bad luck.

$50,000 ALIENATION SUIT

Louis Deoties, 30 years old, a former restaurant proprietor, filed suit in Circuit Court today for $50,000 damages, alleging alienation of the affections of his wife, Mrs. Anna Deoties, who is suing for a divorce.

Her mother, Mrs. Gus Karithas, 4032A Sullivan avenue; the latter's husband, and Peter Karithas, also a relative, are named as defendants. It is alleged that they influenced Mrs. Deoties to leave her husband on Nov. 15 and sue for divorce. Mr. and Mrs. Deoties were married Nov. 14, 1926. None of the defendants could be reached. They are also known as Karides, according to the petition.

The Restless Dollar.
12,000 Against the Tick.
Another Leonardo.
Five Cent Cigars.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

PROF. IRVING FISHER of Yale knows about political economy and says the plans and policies of President Roosevelt "are substantially right." Which is a good thing for a professor to say. The professor is seeking "stabilization" of the dollar and quotes the President's message to the London conference last July:

"The United States of America seeks the kind of a dollar which, a generation hence, will have the same purchasing power and debasing power as the dollar we hope to attain in the near future."

Of course, President Roosevelt did not literally mean that any dollar could have a generation hence the same purchasing power as it has now. Values and purchasing power depend on the price of human labor. You could build pyramids at low cost when workers got nothing but lashes and enough corn and water to keep them alive. If the five or four day week, and the working day of seven or six hours, goes through with increased wages, the dollar cannot possibly buy, generation hence, what it buys now.

If our depression lasts a generation, which heaven forbid, the dollar would buy more than at present. There was a time when you could buy a goose for two pence, a sheep for twice the price, an ox for two or three shillings. Nobody can stabilize the dollar's value, except by saying that it will be exchanged for so much gold, and that doesn't mean much.

One man's meat is another's poison. Cigar manufacturers tell NHA that raising wages in the cigar industry will make the five-cent cigar impossible. The code would pay 23 cents an hour to makers of cigars by hand, 32 cents for operators of machines that make cigars. That does not seem excessive. Someone will continue the five-cent cigar.

The Department of Agriculture will put 12,000 men to work on "tick eradication." The "tick" improperly called sometimes the Texas tick, attaches itself to cattle in the field, hangs on for life, drinking the animal's blood. "Ticky" cattle are thin, miserable, scrawny and almost worthless. The remedy is to dip afflicted animals in a liquid that destroys ticks and then keep them away from infected animals. The poor tick will not put up much of a fight against Uncle Sam, for when it falls off a cow, it can walk only a few inches and must wait until another animal stands still while it climbs up.

Mosquitoes drink the blood of human beings, annoy them, and in addition plant malaria germs in their systems. The tick at least does not do that. It is satisfied to eat. It is pleasing to know that $4,500,000 will be spent by the Government "to eradicate malaria which presumably means wiping out mosquitoes in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Missouri, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Unfortunately neglected rain barrels can start a new mosquito plague and, although mosquitoes cannot fly far, wind sometimes carries them, and railroad trains and automobiles take them everywhere.

Prof. J. D. Paulson of North Carolina State College, graduate of Yale's School of Fine Arts, says the supposed Botticelli "Adoration of the Kings" is really Leonardo da Vinci's painting of "The Birth of Christ." The supposed Botticelli, formerly owned by the Soviet Government, was purchased by an American private citizen, who remains anonymous.

If the supposed Botticelli turns out to be a Leonardo, the anonymous owner has bought a great bargain. No price could be put on such a painting by Leonardo, although he himself attached little importance to his paintings. Applying to an African ruler for a job, he told in detail how he could build bridges, highways, fortifications, machines for besieging cities and added casually, "If it should amuse you, I also paint and play on the flute."

In the life of Leonardo you are amazed at his versatility. He was a painter, sculptor, architect, engineer, musician, mathematician, poet, anatomist, botanist, physicist, and more than 400 years ago he designed an airplane that would have flown had he had a modern gas engine.

Young gentlemen who want to be artistic geniuses overnight would not like Leonardo's suggestion that

The LIFE of a BOY MUSICAL PRODIGY

Jackie Held, 9 Years Old, Hopes to Play With Symphony Orchestra
Here.

If you ask Jackie Held where he goes to school, he answers, "Oh, just up the alley," and abstractedly eyes the cookies on the plate, waiting his first opportunity to ask for another. Nevertheless, Jackie is an authentic child prodigy, has appeared as a pianist before large audiences both here and abroad, and aspires to conduct the symphony orchestra this winter. This afternoon, though, being more immediate, he aspires to have his time off extended to 5:30 so he can play football.

Jackie achieved his football ambitions, and it is possible he will achieve his concert ambitions, for the idea of letting him conduct the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra is being seriously considered. And if his hopes are thwarted in St. Louis, his father, Stephen C. Held, says he has been assured of a chance in Cincinnati. But Jackie would prefer to do it here first, for St. Louis is his home town, and besides, he has carefully charted all the instruments in the Symphony Orchestra, and with the aid of the chart conducts an imaginary orchestra when he has spare time between piano or football practice.

Jackie lives with his parents at 6278 Cates avenue, and the school "just up the alley" is All Saints School, where he is in the fifth grade, and exhibits an equable interest in all his subjects. "Oh, they're all about the same," he replied when asked what he liked best to study. "I guess may be arithmetic." School obviously is something that must be accepted, although his mental alertness has placed him in advance of most boys of his age. Also on the inevitable list is the adulation of his elders, for rather than basking in the attention accorded him because of his unusual abilities, Jackie carries an air of boredom, and occasionally displays considerable restlessness.

Jackie's father, Stephen C. Held, is a pianist and a composer, and is trying out his feet and legs in different positions, gazing abstractedly at the ceiling, after the manner of small boys with "company."

HE WORE a blue velvet Eton jacket, with matching short pants, the sort of costume all child prodigies seem destined to wear when making public appearances. He has brown hair, exceedingly curly, so that despite the decisive part on one side, it bushes out heavily. His eyes are blue and gleaming, and his skin tends toward olive. There is nothing of the anemic child about him, for he is full and his general build rather husky.

"He weighs 85 pounds," proudly asserted his father, a slight man. He is but shortly back from a visit to England and Ireland, the latter the birthplace of both his parents, where he was scheduled to make several public appearances, as pianist and as conductor. However, the stringent child labor laws in England prevented him from fulfilling an engagement to appear at the La Plaza Theater in London, to his great disappointment. His playing position with the instrument at the first trial. By the time he was 2 years old, he had acquired a perfect sense of rhythm, and was comparatively proficient on drums. His father and mother played duets, and he would accompany them. They quickly discovered that as soon as they changed tempo, he followed them.

However, they made no attempt to force him, and he was 6 years old before he began to study the piano. All his work has been under the direction of Ernest C. Krohn, a St. Louisian, although his parents hope when he is older to give him several years in Europe.

His first public appearance was in May, 1931, as a xylophone soloist during a student concert at the Odeon. That was followed by a professional engagement at a local theater as a soloist, and then by a chance to conduct an orchestra at another St. Louis theater. Since then he has been pianist and conductor at theaters in Chicago and New York.

His first interest in becoming a conductor, rather than a pianist only, was aroused when he attended a theater, and he insisted on being provided with phonograph records of various compositions so that he could attempt to conduct.

His parents, perceiving his intensity of desire, placed him under an instructor in conducting, to supplement his piano lessons.

Despite his rapid progress in music, Jackie does not need to give his entire attention to study and practice. His parents feel that he is still so young that he has plenty of time to become a master, and that it is best not to take a chance on overdoing his training. He arises at 7 each morning, except Sundays, and from 7:15 to 8:15 practices. He gives another hour to practice from 4:45 to 5:45, and a half hour from 7 to 7:30.

The rest of his time, other than that given to school, is his own, and is mostly spent out of doors. He swims, plays football and other games popular with youngsters, and likes to box. Only baseball is forbidden—the is too much danger of an injured finger, and ruined career.

The Jazz Habit

THE constant reiteration of unadulterated jazz is a very real cultural menace in modern life, and especially for children.

It is not only a question of spoiling their taste for good music, which in large and continuous doses it is almost sure to do. The child who has been brought up entirely on pop songs and dances is very apt to lose from his life any appreciation of the masterpieces of the world of music and to be by that much the poorer.

But sometimes jazz has a very real and harmful effect on the nervous system and on the emotions. In its origin it is a music intended to stir the emotions and through the senses. Its rhythm is as primitive as it is fascinating, and one has only to see a crowd of people driven about the dance floor under the guidance of a good jazz band to realize the force of its possession.

In the exercise of dancing much of the emotional and nervous energy roused by the music is given expression and so dissipated. But the child who wants jazz every minute, who studies, talks, reads and thinks to jazz, is being stirred in the same way, with no outlet for the energy thus released. Some children become jazz addicts and demand it at every musical opportunity.

In time their nerves become jangled and their emotions surcharged and unstable exactly as though they were dope or drink fiends. Parents it is a means of escape to many. Then the answer is to find out what they are running from and show them what it is.

Jazz in its proper place is both interesting and pleasant, but in excess, or enjoyed in solitude and persistently, it is insidious and habit-forming.

Clothes

THERE is no fixed rule which can be made to cover the reactions of children to the way they are dressed.

Some children are clothes conscious and seemingly from birth, others are always indifferent to the way they are dressed, and still others may change at adolescence from utter carelessness to the fussiest care.

The less a child is obliged to think about his clothes the better. If he feels that his clothes are unsuitable or in any way unlike those of his companions, he is apt to develop a feeling of inferiority and to cover this may either become shy and apologetic or self-assertive and boastful, according to his temperament.

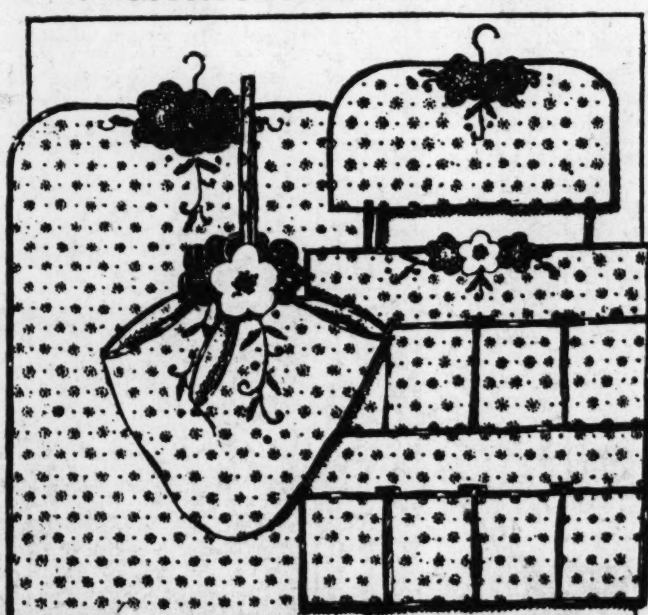

In the one case, he may in time develop a permanently deprecatory attitude which will make him the butt of his companions' criticisms or jests and turn him in upon himself. In the other he tends to become an eccentric, in self-defense glorying in his dissimilarity to the crowd.

There are, of course, children so well balanced that they can stand the trial and emerge quite normal, but there are so few of these that it is hardly worth while taking the chance on the individual, at least until he is old enough to reason and make his own decisions.

The simpler and less noticeable a child's clothes are, the better. Plain and simple things always can be made to fit into the prevailing style by some slight modification or addition. And what the child really desires is protective coloring, which will allow him to submerge himself in the crowd.

Where possible it is well to let him make his own suggestions about his wardrobe so long as he keeps it within the bounds of taste and economy. He knows best what the requirements are and how he can most easily make himself indistinguishable.

Accessorie for the Home

CLOSET ACCESSORIES PATTERN 504

IN THESE days housewives are busy getting their homes in order for the various holidays. The closets are usually the first point of attack. The fastidious housewife will welcome these accessories that will aid her in keeping closets in order and a delight to look at as well. There is the ever necessary clothes bag—the practical hanger-cover—a laundry bag easy to make and to launder—a shoe bag. Each article is decorated with flowers in different scraps of material to which simple embroidered leaf sprays are added. The flowers are made from a flower pattern and are two pieces of material sewn together with an embroidered center as a finishing touch. The thrifty housewife will not only want these articles for her own home, but will find them ideal for that not-so-distant bazaar. Pattern 504 comes to you with a transfer pattern of the flowers and leaf sprays, and detailed directions and yardages for making each article.

Send 10c for this pattern to St. Louis Post-Dispatch Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York City.

Winter Head-Washing We always dread washing the kiddies' heads in cold weather on account of the danger of catching cold. However, if the towels are hung over the radiator, heated and changed during the rubbing, it will quickly dry the child's hair.

SEEN in THE STORES

By SYLVIA

SILVER is one of those dignified, shaggy metals that won't stand for too much humor in the way of informal design, but chromium has a different type of brilliance. All sorts of amusing and tricky pieces can be introduced with colorful touches to give them spice. A shell-like candy dish, for example, has a knob of vermillion red composition sitting in the center and looking very much like a big gum-drop.

A mayonnaise dish of the popular, shiny chromium is shaped something like an inverted "tin hat" of war days. It is accompanied by an ebony-handled ladle, another bowl for salad dressing is of ruby colored glass, but the plate upon which it rests is of the brilliant metal.

Have you seen the new stern-wheel lighters that offer a bit of amusement as well as service for a smoker's table? There is a wheel resembling that which you see on a ship and by flipping it to one side, the sparks are encouraged to fly. Juice for the lighting process is provided by a fluid.

A roll-away cigarette box with a chromium finished surface is equipped with ball-bearing feet so that as it rolls along on the table it won't leave a scratch on the polished surface. How a fastidious homemaker would love that! This is one of the popular preference types of boxes, which means that there are separate compartments for different brands of smokes. A colored composition knob intrudes the bright note of decoration.

The "Help Yourself" keynote of modern entertaining makes increasing use of chromium plating. Illustrating this lively informality are the relish trays and candy boxes of white painted wood, combined with clear glass and chromium handles. The tray is really a shallow, oblong box with eight square dishes supported by simple chromium handles. The candy box is similar, being a cube in which is set a round glass jar. The chromium finish is a plain band crossing the whole width and top.

A centerpiece that seems ideal for an informal table setting consists of a collection of chromium plated containers, some for flowers and some for candies. Four cubes are to hold the candles and there are six separate flower holders, each equipped with wire gadgets to keep the flowers in place. The individual vases are shaped that by putting them together and adding the candlesticks at either side you get a large oval arrangement. If a smaller centerpiece is preferred only half of the vases are used.

Beer sets are making use of the sturdy qualities of the chromium finish. Every day brings a new variety to the St. Louis shops. One complete set for a party of four includes a large pretzel bowl, four steins and a serving tray. The set is without frills and therefore suggests a man's gift rather than another one of the eternal feminine gadgets.

Among other beer containers using chromium are footed glass tumblers employing the metal for decoration. The lower two-thirds of these receptacles are clear glass while the upper third is frosted and has five shining bands in graduated width. Highball glasses may be obtained to match.

Some of the new individual canape servers are made of chromium. The round, flat affairs have

BEAUTY CLINIC

THE smoothest, most lasting and most instantly transforming make-ups are applied over foundations. There are women, however, who may say that they cannot wear any kind of foundation cream or lotion. These women, of course, are exceptions. The tendency of the skin to become spotty and oily—after make-up—May sometimes be overcome by patting a brisk astringent on before the foundation.

Foundation creams and lotions are to be applied with the finger tips or moistened cotton pads. A good make-up base aids in protection in cold weather as well as giving a smooth finish. One may need to switch from a cream to a foundation lotion at times, depending upon the condition of the skin. Newer foundation creams are tinted to blend with the tones of the skin.

Christopher in Trouble

"Do you mean to caw that you didn't hear me say that we were going to put our $2.15 in a bank—and that our bank would be a tree in which there was a fine hole hidden by a vine?" asked Willy Nilly.

"I never heard you say that," said Christopher decidedly. "I thought you kept the money in a cracked cup on the mantelpiece. I remember how much we needed money when Rip had to have a license and I didn't know when we might need it again. I wouldn't have touched that for anything. How dare you accuse me of such a thing?"

"We meant that you did it for a prank," said Willy Nilly, more softly. "We knew you'd give it back. But you must admit that you like to take things." "Besides," crowed Top Notch, "you admitted you were guilty. Now you are using up a lot of time trying to fool us some more."

"But I'm not guilty of stealing the money," cried Christopher. Willy Nilly trembled. "You mean you have done something else that is wicked?" Willy Nilly asked.

"Well, it wasn't so very wicked," said Christopher. But at that moment Grandma Grouchy Galump appeared, her shawl carelessly thrown around her. She looked very angry and excited.

"There you are, you bad crowd. You'll be punished for what you did."

Christopher flew to the branch of the nearest tree and looked down on them all. Top Notch, Willy Nilly and Rip were completely puzzled.

CHAPTER FIVE.

"ANYTHING wrong?" Kim Raleigh approached the bench back of the laboratory hesitantly.

"Nothing—" Linda gave a last dab at her eyes and put her damp handkerchief into her pocket.

"But you've been crying. My windows look out here and I saw you. Surely there is something I can do." He shifted from one foot to the other nervously.

She glanced at the window. In her hurry to get away from Dick, from the lodge, before she broke down completely, she had forgotten that her refuge back of the laboratory wasn't entirely private. "Nothing, Doctor Raleigh."

"Would you rather I'd go?"

"No." And she was telling the truth. His presence was strangely comforting.

"I was worried about you," he continued. "You see, I don't know much about women, so when I saw you crying, I thought—well, it doesn't matter what I thought now that you've stopped."

Nice of him to be so concerned, she thought. Then she wondered whether Dick was looking for her and what he was doing after their first quarrel.

"Did I interrupt your research?"

"Decidedly." He smiled for the first time, an engaging, warm smile that drove the shyness from his eyes. "I thought there was something I could do. That's why I came out." Sitting down on the bench beside her, he pulled a pipe from his pocket. "I'll hate to leave here."

"You love it, too?"

"Very much, more than any place I've ever been. I thought Dr. Barry was fooling when he kept urging me—to come down here. Finally, when I did make up my mind to come, I did it only as a favor to him—and because of what he said about the laboratory."

"That was chiefly what I wanted, a place to work in peace and quiet, but I haven't done all that I wanted to do in the lab because the woods keep calling me away from my work."

SHE nodded understandingly and hoped his smile would stay, and the veil of shyness would let come back into his eyes. There was something restful about Kim Raleigh. The quiet way he talked, his low voice, his relaxation as he leaned back, puffing on the pipe he had filled and lighted as he talked.

"Uncle Jim wouldn't tell me what you were doing except that you were working with brains."

"I am—on a theory of mine that diseased gray matter can be healed. I've had it in mind since I was a pre-med student, but I haven't had much time to do anything about it. Too busy at St. Vincent's hospital."

"But when my friends at the hospital—your uncle was the chief one—insisted I needed a two months' rest, I thought it would give me a chance to do something with my theory. I peg away at it in the lab at the hospital, but my time is so limited I can't get much done."

"Had you been working too hard at the hospital?"

"So they said. I didn't think so. I still don't think so, although I'm ever so grateful to your uncle for introducing me to these woods."

"And your experiments? How are they going here?"

"Pretty well, considering how the lake lures me and the woods call me. I operated four days ago on a guinea pig, and she's still living today. Like to see how she's getting along?"

Linda said she would and they went into the laboratory together.

"Rather messy. I'm keeping house here for myself," he apologized as he pushed a stool from his path.

"Decidedly more orderly than when Dr. Barry is here," she remarked. "The one place where Mrs. Abbot—all of them in fact—were forbidden was the laboratory cottage."

The building contained, besides the well equipped laboratory, a small bedroom-sitting room, a bath and a miniature kitchen.

"Here's Ruffles," Raleigh went to one of the cages where a spotted guinea pig was sleeping, its head neatly bandaged.

"Ruffles?" Linda asked curiously.

Raleigh opened the cage and patted the animal. "I name him. I get quite attached to them. Ruffles has been a good little soldier, stronger than the rest. Perhaps she'll pull through. I hope so."

"And these?" pointing to three rabbits in adjoining cages.

"The white one is Tim, the black and white one, Milly, and the other Jenny. Tim goes on the operating table in the morning. Don't laugh, please."

"I can't help it. It's funny to think you could be fond of them when you have to hurt them."

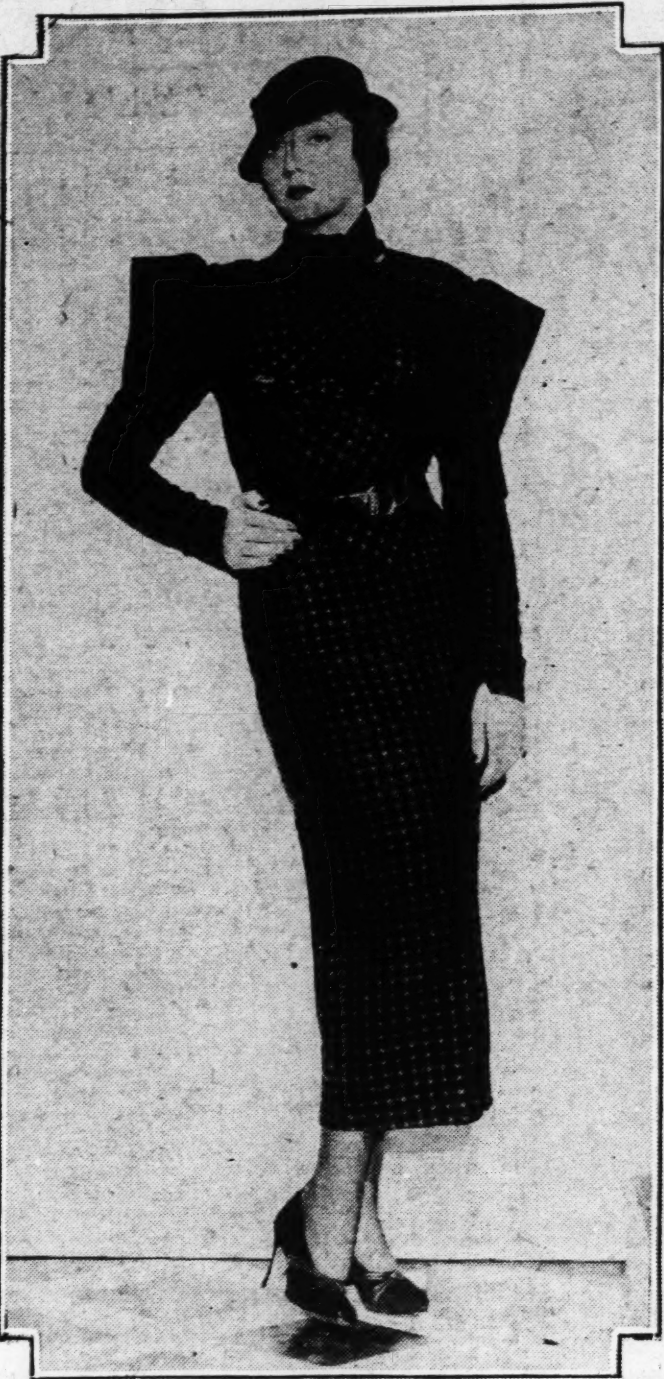

"But I can't help it. I have to work on animals first. I can't cut out part of a diseased human brain until I know what I'm doing. That's why I got so attached to these little fellows. They help me, and some day through their help I may be able to do something for humans."

"I didn't dream any surgeons except my uncle were sentimentalists."

"Well, I guess I am, Miss Barry."

"I'm Linda to you, Doctor Raleigh, and you're going to be Kim to me. That's your name, isn't it? There's no use being formal with each other when we're living

The Names of Wines

By HORATIO F. STOLL.

The majority of a series of 18 daily articles by Horatio F. Stoll, noted wine authority, on how to judge, choose, keep and serve wines.

"WHY can't we give our wines American names?" people often exclaim, when they become confused by the European geographic names used to distinguish the many wine types.

American wine-makers could do that but the result would be even more confusing because wine-users throughout the world are accustomed to the European names. Buyers would have great difficulty in identifying wines as to type. There is no more reason for renaming wines now having foreign names than there would be for giving new names to foods of foreign origin, such as macaroni, spaghetti or sauerkraut.

The majority of well-known wines have had their birth in districts or provinces of France, Germany, Spain or Italy, whence these wine types originally came. Sauterne, for example, is the name of a district in France corresponding to a county in one of our states. Sauterne is the outstanding wine of that district, the one for which the region is renowned. Port derived its name from Oporto in Portugal, where that type of wine was originally made and where most of it is made.

When vineyards were established in California, South Africa, Australia, Argentina, and other parts of the world, grape vines were transplanted to these new lands from the European vineyards. The vineyardists and wine makers in the new lands made every effort to reproduce the wines of their native districts because those were the types which wine drinkers the world over knew and wanted to buy.

The term "American wines" refers to wines made from native grapevines developed in the United States, principally in the Eastern States, where the European types of grapes do not thrive. With the exception of the champagnes, these native American grapes do not produce wines which correspond closely to those made in the European wine districts. They are new and distinctive types of American origin and therefore they bear distinctly American names.

In subsequent articles, where the major wine types available on the American market are described, it is not the writer's intention to suggest that the foreign, California or American wines are superior or preferable. Each type has its inspired wines and its mediocre varieties, and there are enthusiasts ready to shout the glories of every wine. After all, the favorite wine is a matter of personal preference. ## IN HOLLYWOOD

With Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23.

POLLY MORAN without Marie Dressler is the plan at Radio Studios. You see, in the past Polly has figured as a Dressler poster without being given very much of her own. Now she is under contract to make two pictures at Radio Studios and it's the aim of the boys in charge of Radio production to see that Polly proves her mettle in a solo performance. Her first is "Drusilla With a Million."

That married man, Joel McCrea, is back in town with his bride and he moves right into Warner Brothers Studios. Joel and Pat O'Brien share male acting honors in "Gambling Lady," opposite Barbara Stanwyck. And won't there be a stampede to get to the telephone what with Barbara calling Frank Fay, Joel telephoning Frances Lee, and Pat trying to talk to his wife?

Charlie Chaplin always reacts to the old slogan, "Wise men change their minds, fools never." At the moment Charlie is all pepped up over the big idea of resurrecting "A Woman of Paris" and making it into a talkie. Without himself, naturally. Charlie doesn't talk. Although he hasn't said so, it's my opinion that Paulette Goddard will play the part that Edna Purviance created in the silent film.

Not since Katharine Hepburn captivated the movie going world has any actress created as much of a stir in Hollywood as Margaret Sullivan. Either Miss Sullivan will be a sensation or she will be forgotten in another six months. Her voice is a matter of taste. Some people believe she slurs her words, others that there is something fascinating about her stage cultivated tones.

Gold Is a Neat Mineral

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

GOLD has always been an important ingredient of wealth.

It is valuable because it is found in few places and borrowed in fewer. It is returned fewest.

It is heavy, soft and malleable. It is not affected by air, water or entreaties. It will dissolve in nitro-hydrochloric acid. But you're foolish if you try it. It is found in any kind of stone formation except marble-front banks.

Only about one-fourth of all gold goes into money. The rest is pounded back into teeth and wedding rings. We figure that by 1999 the dentists will have used it all on patients who haven't any. That means the dentists won't get paid. But they're used to it.

The Etruscans prized gold highly for ornaments, jewelry and loving cups. If you can steal enough of it they will call you Honest John. It has destroyed civilizations, conquered armies and raised more devil than Saturday night.

We do not claim to be an authority on the subject. We are speaking freely without samples. We haven't seen any since Jack Johnson smiled at Reno, Nevada.

Valido, former chief of the Calmameta garrison; Lieut. Luis Nardo Veda, former chief of the Perico garrison.

The officers, who had served under former President Gerardo Machado and consequently were in favor with the present Government of President Ramon Grau San Martin, were being escorted by a military detachment commanded by Lieut. Rodolfo Sanchez.

At a point on the highway near Colon the detachment was stopped by a group of men, none of whom was identified, armed with machine guns and rifles.

Holding the escorting soldiers at bay, they took the former officers prisoners from the road and killed them outright in a field.
